BOSTON SCENE OF INQUIRY INTO GAS OWNERSHIP

Financial Structure of New Firm Object of Investigation.

U. S. AID IN GETTING RECORDS IS LOOMING

Acquisition in Hyattsville by Washington Company Is Authorized.

The investigation being conducted by the Public Utilities Commission to ascertain the ownership of the Washington Gas Light Co. and the Georgetown Gas Co. last night turned to Boston, where the charter of the Seaboard Investment Trust was issued and just recently amended to as to change the name to the Washington & Suburban Co.

William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel for the commission, left Washington for Boston last night after the utilities body had approved Corporation Counsel William W. Bride's recommendation that he make the trip in order to gather first-hand data on the financial structure of the new corporation.

Meanwhile, the likelihood that the Federal Government would be drawn into the inquiry to aid the District in obtaining records loomed. Should the commission not be able to obtain all the information sought to solve the puzzle, legal steps may be taken to seize the books of the holding company.

La Follette Act Looms.

The La Follette antimerger act in all probability will be used again as a basis for a new suit if the investigation reveals a change in ownership of the local companies. Officials, however, declined to make a prediction until they get more facts.

Corporation Counsel Bride stated yesterday that every angle of the matter was being investigated in Washington, New York and Chicago. Mr. Roberts will likely stop off in New York on the way back from Boston to make further inquiries to determine whether New York interests still own the local gas companies or whether this ownership has passed into hands of utility operators in Chicago.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, stated yesterday that the utilities body would back Corporation Counsel Bride in taking whatever steps necessary to get at the bottom of the tangle.

Quiz of Financial Report.

Among the specific things Mr. Roberts will investigate in Boston, he said, will be the financial reports of the Seaboard Investment Trust, its relations with the new Washington and Suburban Co., the latter's financial set-up and the relation of the new corporation with the Washington Gas Light Co.

The story carried by The Post Tuesday morning concerning the announcement of the Central Public Service System, of Chicago, that henceforth it would manage the Washington Gas Light Co., the Alexandria Gas Co., the Washington Suburban Gas Co. and the New York and Richmond Gas Co., was confirmed when Ayers and associates, of Chicago, sent out the announcement in a mimeographed copy and marked

Calvin Coolidge Says:

The results of the recent European naval agreement were mostly political. In that field they are important. The great powers finally have reached a definite basis for all naval construction. That is the outstanding fact. After years of effort competition has been limited and perhaps ended. That is an achievement of the first rank. The agreement has not been accomplished without considerable sacrifice of principle. It does not in terms provide for a reduction, but for an increase, of naval armaments. This may be only a concession to national sentiment. Perhaps the additional tonnage will not be constructed.

For the sake of establishing the principle of limitation and ending competition, probably it would be wise for our own Government to concur in the agreement, if necessary to make it effective. If France increases her submarine fleet, we have the same right to build destroyers as an offset that any other nation has. The world has to make slow progress in reversing a policy of ages. But the policy has been reversed. The five powers all have adopted the course charted in the Washington Treaty. They will be in better condition to make further progress in the 1932 conference.

U. S. Beauty Details Slaying of Husband

Self-Defense Held Motive In Killing Theater Magnate at Nice.

Nice, France (Friday), March 13 (U.P.).—The detailed confession of her crime, penned by Mrs. Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, beauty prize wife of the slain Philadelphia theater magnate, in jail here, was made public by the authorities early today.

Using the jewelled fountain pen which was a gift from her dead husband, the St. Louis beauty pageant winner sat in a cell charged with his murder, and wrote her confession of the elderly Nixon-Nirdlinger's last moments. She shot him following a quarrel Wednesday night in their Riviera apartment.

"We dined together," the former

BUS AND AUTO CRASH HEAD-ON; MAN DEAD

Claude H. Saffer, Leesburg, Victim; Driver Injured; Passengers Unhurt.

His automobile crashing head-on into one of the buses of the Washington-Virginia-Maryland Coach Co. on the Lee highway near Glebe road last night, Claude H. Saffer, 27, of Leesburg, was almost instantaneously killed. His car turned completed around and was demolished.

Picking his mangled body off the highway, Roy Heinbuck rushed to the Georgetown Hospital where he was pronounced dead. According to police a smashed bottle of whisky was found in his pocket.

In an effort to avoid the accident Claude Geldart, driver of the bus, drove the off the road, stopping the machine within one foot of a telephone pole. He received alight cuts from the flying glass from the broken windshield caused by the crash.

No passenger on the bus was injured.

Saffer, who was employed by the Leesburg firm of C. C. Saffer & Bros., implements and seed business, made his home in Alvie, Va. He left Leesburg in midafternoon yesterday, stopping at Falls Church, Va., en route to see his brother. The accident occurred scarcely 15 minutes later.

He is survived by his father, who is a member o the firm, mother and several brothers and sisters.

Chinese Woman Leads 3,000 Bandits to Defeat

Shanghai, March 13 (U.P.).—A sister of Gen. Holung, notorious Communist, led 3,000 Chinese bandits into a fierce battle today and met defeat. The woman directed her forces to attack the Town of Lachih.

As she was crossing the Hupeh-Hunan border she was met by government troops of the Forty-eighth Division, under Gen. Hsu Yuan-Chan. In the fighting that followed there were many casualties and the invaders were finally routed.

STATE DEPARTMENT CLERK STABS WIFE

S. A. Skinner Collapses at Precinct; Condition of Mate Undetermined.

Apparently suffering from a relapse of a nervous breakdown he suffered some time ago, Sidney A. Skinner, a clerk in the State Department, last night stabbed his wife in their home on Twenty-first street northeast near Randolph street.

The woman, Mrs. Dorothy Skinner, is in an undetermined condition at Homeopathic Hospital with a deep stab wound in the left side of her back and several other minor cuts. After stabbing his wife, Skinner is reported to have pushed her out of the house and locked the door.

Apparently there were no witnesses to the affray, and neither Skinner nor his wife were in a position to talk. Skinner collapsed while being booked at the Twelfth Precinct Station on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon and was sent to Gallinger Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Skinner have three children, a baby boy and two little girls. According to the oldest girl, her mother was writing a letter when the man went into the parlor, where the stabbing took place. No quarrel preceded the affair.

In December Skinner suffered a nervous breakdown, according to neighbors. He returned to work only a few days ago. He had been under treatment by Dr. Charles Bowne, of 2001 Rhode Island avenue. Dr. Bowne was called by neighbors and arrived in time to take the wife to the hospital.

The weapon used in the attack was a steel carving knife, which was stained with blood far up the blade. After the woman was pushed out of doors her screams aroused neighbors, who persuaded him to open the door and let the wife in.

Skinner, when booked, appeared to be in a dazed condition and could answer no questions put to him by police.

Voluntary Manslaughter Is Verdict of Torch Jury

Harold H. Schroeder Convicted for Death of Unknown Man Whose Charred Body Was Found in Alabaman's Automobile.

(Picture on Page Five.)

Indianapolis, March 12 (A.P.).—Harold Herbert Schroeder, 35, of Mobile, Ala., was convicted of voluntary manslaughter by a criminal court jury tonight for the death of an unidentified man whose charred body was found in Schroeder's automobile near here last May 31. The verdict carries a penalty of 2 to 21 years.

The Mobile garage man will be sentenced by Judge Frank P. Baker at 9:30 a. m. Monday. Defense counsel will have until that time to file any motions he may wish to make.

The verdict was returned in a crowded courtroom after the jurors had deliberated 3 hours and 35 minutes.

The State sought to show that Schroeder, in burning the body of an unidentified man in his automobile, hoped it would be assumed he himself had died in the fire, and that he could continue his life under another name.

Schroeder has said the man was killed in an accident while riding with him, and that, fearing he might be accused of murder, he burned the body.

The reading of instructions by the judge required nearly an hour. He informed the jury of seven possible

SWEEPING DRY DRIVE OVER U.S. SET FOR JULY 1

500 Men to Be Added to Force of 2,500 for Spurred Effort.

FAST CARS TO SCOUR ROADS FOR RUNNERS

Tricks of Liquor Trade Will Be Studied by Newly Created Division.

Prohibition enforcement's most sweeping offensive has been set for July 1 to herald the first anniversary of the administration of Prohibition Director Amos W. Woodcock.

Along every front, the Washington area included, 500 additional Federal agents will be distributed to swell the dry army to an imposing figure of almost 2,500 men in a carefully planned campaign to be launched mainly upon commercial dry law violators.

A major weapon will be the 90 to 100 fast machines that will be placed on strategic highways over the Nation to track down liquor runners in an effort to curb a practice that the present fleet of 750 enforcement machines has found baffling.

The big "push," Director Woodcock revealed yesterday, embodies also the realization of two other objectives. One calls for the practical dovetailing of all operations on the basis of suggestions he has sought from all prohibition administrators and deputies.

Creation of an "intelligence division" designed to "study the enemy, learn the sources of supply, tricks of the liquor trade and the countless other facts necessary for successful enforcement," in the words of the dry chief, completes the present scheme of maneuver.

Want Definite Plan.

"We want to have a definite plan of action in every section to start in earnest July 1," he asserted. "There is no use having increased facilities unless there is a campaign to employ them, and I want some real thinking done upon it. We should get away from the old policy of living and operating against violators on a day-by-day basis."

Approximately 150 men of the new force already have been selected and put to work, principally at present in the New York area.

In making this announcement Mr. Woodcock divulged figures for enforcement for February, which showed 4,181 arrests, 544 automobiles, 3 boats and launches and 1,815 stills or distilleries seized. Agents also captured 245,683 gallons of beer and 159,427 gallons of liquor.

"Surely this must put a dent in commercial violations," he declared. "In one State alone, New York, we seized stills with an aggregate daily capacity of 90,000 gallons."

His report for the District showed that in February 240 arrests were made, with seizures including 47 automobiles, 28 stills or distilleries,

DENISON RUM CASE MAY GET TO JURY TODAY

Defense Ends Testimony With Former Representative Denying Charges.

ACQUITTAL VERDICT REFUSED BY COURT

Long Line of Character Witnesses Attest to Sobriety of Accused Man.

Former Representative Edward E. Denison, who was defeated for re-election to the new Congress, probably because he was charged with bringing liquor from Panama to Washington, took the stand in his own defense yesterday, and unequivocally denied the Government's charges.

The defense ended its testimony late in the day, and the case is expected to go to the jury today. Presentation of the defense witnesses began after Justice Gordon had overruled a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

E. Hilton Jackson, of defense counsel, with the jury absent, argued that the Government had failed to show a case, but Justice Gordon said he would let the jury decide.

Defeat Laid to Case.

Mr. Denison, who probably would have been reelected for his ninth successive term had it not been for the indictment charging him with illegal possession of liquor, which was pending when the voters went to the polls for the last election, apparently was determined to be casual, as if his knowledge of his innocence were a bulwark adequate to preserve his equanimity.

He bought no liquor in Panama, he swore. He had no use for it, for he was not a drinking man, he said. His casualness slipped a little when he added with suppressed feeling that he had, however, tasted liquor and knew what it tasted like.

"You're not like Mr. John J. Quinn, the prohibition agent, who never tasted liquor but only smelled it," interjected William E. Leahy, chief of defense counsel.

$500 Fine Is Penalty.

Charged with illegal possession of liquor, the most severe penalty which may be imposed by Justice Peyton Gordon, hearing the trial in the District Supreme Court, if the jury returns a verdict of guilty, is a fine of $500.

So far the fight Mr. Denison has waged against the charge has unquestionably cost him several times that maximum penalty. The strain of his battle was evident when he was on the stand yesterday.

However well he controlled his facial muscles, and however fully he answered questions propounded by Irvin Goldstein, assistant District attorney who is conducting the prosecution, with the aid of Assistant District Attorney John J. Sirica, Mr. Denison could not control his throat muscles, which betrayed the tensity he sought to cover with exterior calm. He frequently took a drink of water to overcome hoarseness, though his

Britain Wants Ghandi At Next Indian Parley

Former Prime Minister Baldwin Hails Accord as Commonsense Victory, Saying Party Cooperation Must Not Be Broken.

London, March 12 (A.P.).—The next round-table conference on India will be held in London, probably early in the autumn, and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald said tonight there were hopes that Mahatma Gandhi would attend an earlier meeting here, that of the Indian federal structure committee. The facts were brought out this afternoon and tonight during important debate on the Indian situation.

"The committee's report (this body was named by the first round-table conference to study a plan for eventual dominion status in India) indicates," said Mr. MacDonald, "that the big points have to be discussed together.

"We hope when they come—I can not say we have been officially told, but hope is so strong that it almost goes beyond the frontiers of hope—that congress representatives, Mr. Gandhi himself, for instance, will be here."

Should Gandhi and his colleagues of the all-India National Congress come to London, it would mark a new achievement for the Labor government, for only last week—after previously holding for nothing short of independence—they made a truce with the viceroy and agreed to consider the dominion status offer. For a long time there had been doubt that they would cooperate with the British in India, let alone England.

The prime minister amplified an earlier statement by Capt. Wedgwood Benn, secretary of state for India, who told of the round-table meeting in the fall. Mr. MacDonald backed that up and said the Federal structure committee would continue negotiations during the summer so as to be ready for the parley in autumn. He added that the viceroy, Lord Irwin, already had been asked to arrange an early meeting of the committee.

The sensation of an evening of important debate was provided, however, by former Premier Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader. He dispersed all the doubts which have arisen in recent days as to his own and his party's Indian policy and, in ringing tones far from his usual quiet style of oratory, said:

"If party cooperation were once broken down the whole problem of the government of India would be insoluble and impossible. I, myself, would never undertake the responsibility of attempting to break up that unity. If the Conservatives are in the minority, let them refrain from throwing further difficulties in the way of those who have undertaken an almost superhuman task." He

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM ADOPTED AT CLOSE OF PROGRESSIVE SESSION

Proposals Are Approved At Liberal Group Parley

Legislative proposals adopted by the Progressive conference were:

Scientific revision of the tariff, together with the appointment of a people's tariff counsel, and the transfer to Congress of tariff-changing powers now held by the President.

Enactment of the Norris "lame duck" bill.

Provision for allowing Cabinet officers and other departmental officials to appear before Congress and explain legislation.

Creation of machinery to prevent another unemployment crisis.

Strengthening of the national corrupt practices act and its extension to cover primary elections.

Enactment of an anti-injunction law to protect labor against the usurpation of legislative powers by the courts.

Repeal of the war-time espionage act; abandonment of postoffice censorship of books, magazines and newspapers; abandonment of the use of Government spies, and of wire-tapping.

Strengthening of the direct primary law.

Enactment of laws to make effective the power of the Federal Government to protect rights of free speech, free press and free assemblage.

The recommendations with regard to farm relief and public utilities will not be made until the fall.

'Another Roosevelt' Held Need in Presidency by Norris.

NEW YORK GOVERNOR SEEN AS SUPPORTED

Agriculture, Public Utilities Groups Fail to Report Recommendations.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The two-day Progressive conference, attended by dissatisfied Republicans and Democrats, together with men and women who adhere to neither of the big parties, came to a close here late yesterday, after adopting a legislative program and applauding a statement that what is needed in the White House is a Progressive President—"another Roosevelt."

The legislative program calls for scientific revision of tariff rates and admission of Cabinet officers to the halls of Congress to explain legislation. A "rapid" survey was also urged to determine whether there should be an extra session of Congress to deal with unemployment.

Might Mean Gov. Roosevelt.

The statement that "another Roosevelt" was needed in the White House was made by Senator George Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, in his farewell to the conference.

Later Senator Norris was asked whether he was booming Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President.

"I never thought about that," he replied.

"But," he added, "I guess they will all think that."

Two Reports Missing.

And there is no doubt but many of those who applauded Senator Norris' statement thought he had in mind the New York Governor. The day before Roosevelt had sent a cordial telegram which was regarded as a bid for Progressive support.

The partial legislative program that was adopted yesterday—it was partial because the committees on agriculture and public utilities were not ready to report—was compounded of recommendations made by the committees on return to representative government, the tariff and unemployment and industrial stabilization.

Report Is Adopted.

The committee on return to representative government, headed by Senator Cutting (Republican), New Mexico, made the following recommendations, all of which were adopted:

That Cabinet officers and other departmental officials be allowed to take the floor in the Senate and the House and explain the measures with which they are concerned.

That the Norris "lame duck" bill be enacted.

That the espionage act, a wartime measure, be repealed; that censorship of newspapers, magazines, and other organs of opinion be discontinued; that wire-tapping and the use of Government agents provocateur and spies be discontinued, and that the immigration act be amended to prevent the deportation of political refugees.

"Shot" at Smith Seen.

That the direct primary law be strengthened, and that the present "attempt to reestablish the caucus and convention system"—evidently a shot at Alfred E. Smith—be condemned.

That the anti-injunction law, now being demanded by labor, be adopted.

That the national corrupt practices act be extended to cover primary elections.

That a study be made and a report later submitted on such questions as abolition of the electoral college, freeing Congress of the task of considering petty bills, and the liberalization of the rules of the House.

U. S. EMPLOYMENT SERVICE BROADENED

Hoover Appoints J. R. Alpine to Direct Hunt for Jobs; Gain Is Reported.

(Associated Press.)

A program looking toward the extension of Federal employment services was initiated yesterday by President Hoover.

At the same time, Secretary Doak announced there had been a general increase in the volume of industrial employment during February, as compared with the previous month.

President Hoover announced the appointment of John R. Alpine, of New York, a former vice president of the American Federation of Labor, as special assistant to Secretary Doak to handle the employment service.

The Chief Executive also said the service would be extended to include the following workers: Mining, building, metal trades, transportation, needle trades, textiles, office and mercantile, seamen and longshoremen.

"In addition to the extension of the Federal Employment Service in these directions, which are interstate in character, and which will be set up in cooperation with the existing public agencies, it is proposed that an extensive study of the whole question of free public employment agencies shall be made, both in the United States and abroad," President Hoover said.

The President has available for the project $500,000 appropriated by the recent Congress, in addition to the usual $380,000 per year.

Secretary Doak said the employment increase for February was more than the normal seasonal volume and was "the first satisfactory indication of a general upward trend since the stock market collapsed in October, 1929."

Reports of 13,377 manufacturing establishments employing 2,772,219 workers during February, with a weekly pay roll of $66,567,283, were the basis of the estimates, the Secretary said.

They indicated, he added, that the gain in the number of workers in February was 1.4 per cent over the total employed in January, while the pay roll was 7.5 per cent over January.

After a conference between Secretary Doak and Mr. Alpine it was indicated a study of the present employment service organization would be the first step.

Last week President Hoover pocket vetoed the Wagner bill which provided for extension and reconstruction of the Federal employment serv-

FIVE-DAY WORKING WEEK GREEN'S PLEA

Schedule for U. S. Employes To Be Sought at Next Session of Congress.

A five-day work week for Government employes will be sought of the next session of Congress, William E. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, announced yesterday.

Mr. Green made his announcement in the course of a speech before the meeting of the progressives in the Carlton Hotel yesterday.

"The National Government," Mr. Green declared, "should take the lead in establishing the five-day work week in all type of American industry and its first move in this direction should be legislation providing for a shorter working week for all of its workers.

"We have just succeeded, after tremendous effort, in obtaining a Saturday half holiday for Federal employes. This is a mere stop-gap. It means little or nothing at all so far as modern industrial conditions are concerned.

"Why should the Federal Government lag behind and follow private industry in this reform? It should take the lead."

Landslide Covers 2 French Hamlets

Sod Moving Down Mountain to Another Town at 500 Feet an Hour.

Chambery, France, March 12 (A.P.).—An enormous landslide, breaking loose with dull rumblings and crashings, today engulfed the hamlets of Berges and Michaud and tonight was moving down the mountain side toward the picturesque village of Lechatelard at a rate of 500 feet an hour.

There were no casualties, so far as known, and government engineers immediately took steps in an attempt to divert the avalanche. As a precaution they caused 125 residents of Lechatelard to evacuate their homes.

The surface of the slide was estimated at 100 acres and its volume at 200,000,000 cubic feet. In the meantime another slide, estimated at 1,000,000 cubic feet in volume, blocked a road near Moutiers-Tarantaise. Both were attributed to unprecedented winter rains.

New Watchman, 58, Drowns In Falling Off Coffer Dam

Efforts Fail to Revive John Jenkins After Recovery of His Body From Potomac; District Coroner Called Following Jurisdiction Discussion.

An hour of intensive effort and two injections of adrenalin failed to reclaim the life of John Jenkins, 58 years old, of 1602 Montello avenue northeast, who slipped to his death in the dark waters of the Potomac River last night from the planking of a coffer dam.

The tragedy happened as the man, a night watchman for the Merritt, Chapman & Scott Corporation, contractors and builders, was making his 8 o'clock round at the construction project in connection with the Mount Vernon boulevard, on the east side of the Potomac.

After the man was pronounced dead, the old question of divided authority in that particular section, which has caused complaints in automobile accidents, threatened to appear again. At first neither insurance officials of the company, Merritt, Chapman & Scott officials, Virginia or District police could determine which coroner should be called.

District representatives contended it was a Virginia case, and Virginia authorities said it was to be settled by the District coroner, since the downing happened in the District. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt, of the District of Columbia, was finally called, and the body was removed to the District Morgue.

Mr. Jenkins was a new man on the dustrial stabilization, headed by Senator La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, were as follows:

That a subcommittee be appointed to make a rapid survey of unemployment and distress, and that if in its opinion such a course should seem necessary a call for a special session of Congress to deal with the problem be issued. (Unemployment now is so great, the report said, that charitable funds may be exhausted within a month.)

That machinery be created for "planning and control," in order that a future crisis may be avoided.

Wagner Bill Veto Scored.

The committe deplored the veto of the Wagner bill. Had it not been for the veto, it said, a coordinated national system of employment exchanges would now be in process of formation.

The committe decided to make a study of employment offices, unemployment reserves and insurance funds, and a shorter work day and week, among other questions.

The tariff committee, headed by Senator-elect Costigan (Democrat), of Colorado, called for a scientific revision of important tariff rates and administrative clauses, "with a view to the maintenance of fair and wholesome competition, more liberal commerce with other nations, restored confidence and reawakened posperity."

Recapture of Powers Urged.

"Administrative and other changes," the report said, "should include more certain standards for the prompt and efficient determination of excessive tariff rates; and the recapture by the Congress of the tariff-changing powers now exercised by the President.

"A genuinely impartial, nonpartisan and efficient tariff commission, aided in its investigations by an able and expert people's counsel, should directly report to Congress its recommendations of tariff changes, subject to the safeguard, for obviating log-rolling, that any legislative changes relating to such recommendations shall be expressly confined to the subjects dealt with in such reports of the tariff commission."

Two Reports Delayed.

Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, notified the conference that his committee on agriculture would not be ready to make its report until after it had held a series of conferences in the spring and summer, and had availed itself of the views of farmers and students of farm problems.

Senator Norris, who had opened the discussion on public utilities, did not appoint the committee on that subject until the conference was about to end. Consequently, the report of this committee also must be delayed.

When the legislative program is finally complete the Progressives expect to present it to Congress and demand action on it. Inasmuch as they will have the balance of power in the next Congress, it would seem that some of their recommendations are likely to be transformed into law.

May Be in Platform.

Also it seems fairly certain that some of their recommendations will find their way into the platform that is adopted by the next Democratic national convention.

In the morning session, which was devoted to unemployment, Senator La Follette assailed President Hoover and declared that the industrial, financial and political leadership of the Nation had broken down.

President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, was cheered when he advocated a five-day work week, but when he came out against recognition of Russia there were a few "boos."

Democrats Are Criticized.

Both John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Owen D. Young, who is believed by some to be his choice for the presidential nomination, came in for criticism in the course of the day.

Senator Norris denounced Mr. Raskob and Edward N. Nockels, of the American Federation of Labor, and described Mr. Young as head of the "radio trust."

Earlier in his speech, Senator Norris said that he thought Prof. Charles Beard, the historian, had very aptly answered the fourteen question asked by Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader. Prof. Beard had said, in answer to one question, that progressives did not favor repeal of the prohibition amendment unless some good substitute were offered.

"Engineer Still Here."

Senator Norris said that Senator Watson was a "fine fellow," but that he always listens to "the voice of his master."

He added that the progressives should not deceive themselves into believing that, simply because they will have the balance of power in the next Congress, that the way has been cleared for "just legislation."

"Do not forget," he said, "that the engineer is still in the White House. What this country needs, what this country must have in order to get progressive legislation in a national sense, is a President who is himself progressive. * * * What we do need is another Roosevelt in the White House."

Third Party Idea Scored.

This was greeted with cheers.

Arguing against a third party, Senator Norris described how difficult it was for an independent to contend against two well organized parties.

"We have but little hope of electing a President of the United States who is a progressive. Do not deceive yourselves, my friends. Just recently the Democratic national committee met and Johnny Raskob made a speech. If he had any object in view, it was to manacle the Democratic party and carry it over to the Hoover band wagon."

Dickinson Scores Borah's Debenture Plan Support

(Associated Press.)

Advocacy of the export debenture plan of farm relief by Senator Borah before the Progressive conference was criticized yesterday by Senator Dickinson.

The Iowa Republican, chairman of his party's advisory council for agriculture, said Borah, Idaho Republican, "conceded that the American farmers do not want the export debenture or bounty plan of aid for which he has contended in Congress, but he makes it fairly clear that it is his aim to give it to them irrespective of their own desires."

The statement, made through the national committee, added that the relief measures passed during the present administration had been of "material relief" to agriculture.

China Seeking Release Of Two Held by Bandits

(Associated Press.)

Chinese Minister Wu informed the State Department yesterday "the Chinese government gives assurances that it has been making and will make every possible effort" to effect the release of the Rev. Bert N. Nelson, American Lutheran missionary, and the Rev. Kristofer N. Tvedt, Norwegian missionary, held for ransom by Chinese bandits since last October 25.

The American Government Wednesday made "urgent representations" to the Chinese government over their long-continued captivity and harsh treatment.

WICKERSHAM GIVEN SURPRISE BY WETS

Most Vehement Criticisms Made by Dry Law Foes, Chairman Finds.

Boston, March 12 (A.P.)—George W. Wickersham, in an address here today, said the avalanche of "wet criticism" which greeted the recent prohibition report of the Law Enforcement Commission, of which he was chairman, was surprising.

Interpreting the report as a document from which he thought the "wets" would have derived more encouragement than the "drys," Mr. Wickersham revealed his surprise that "the most vehement criticism" had come from the opponents of prohibition.

Speaking vigorously, the elderly chairman replied to the critics of his clusions and recommEAINSHRDLUU commission with a denial that its conclusions and recommendations "were utterly at variance with the report."

Report Appears Mislaid.

The survey of the liquor situation in Massachusetts, a report which the commission failed to forward to Congress, with those for South Dakota, Nebraska and California, "appear to have been mislaid," Mr. Wickersham told the Boston Chamber of Commerce. He dismissed that portion of his address with an explanation that the survey was not the property of the commission, that it had been compiled by the Bureau of Prohibition and that it was "in no respect a part of the report of this commission."

He denied charges that the investigation by his commission had cost the Nation "upwards of $5 a word."

The cost was less than $100,000, he said, giving in detail the expenses that had brought the cost to that figure.

He did not reveal how the commission members stood individually on the proposal to revise the eighteenth amendment, but did admit there were differences of opinion among them.

Great Concern Given.

"The question of alternatives to the existing order gave members of the commission great concern," he said. "Some of us, of whom I am one, feared that any of the modifications proposed would inevitably lead to the restoration of the licensed saloon, with all the evils of this institution in the past, and therefore were unwilling at this time to abandon all further efforts to bring about a general observance of the eighteenth amendment."

The attitude of "dry" organizations and publications toward the report appeared to have pleased Mr Wickersham. "They seem to have taken to heart," he said, "the criticisms of the methods adopted by prohibition advocates in the past and to have realized from the description of existing conditions the need of rallying their forces and reconsidering their plans in the light of the facts set forth."

Some of the wets, apparently bitterly disappointed because the commission had failed to devise a way in which they could get liquor with east, he asserted, seemed to have appropriated the extreme intolerance once exhibited by the prohibitionists.

Christgau Tells Views.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12 (A.P.)—If the opponents of prohibition should derive more comfort from the Wickersham report than the prohibitionists, then there is some misunderstanding in the dry camp, C. G. Christgau, of Washington, Antisaloon League official, who is here winding up the details of the league's convention, which closed yesterday, said today.

The Wickersham Commission fears any proposed modifications of the eighteenth amendment would inevitably effect restoration of the saloon and all of its attendant evils," said Mr. Christgau, "and as a matter of fact the Antisaloon League knows that this would result.

"As we understood it the Wickersham committee holds that the eighteenth amendment, enforced, is the best possible solution of the problem until some better substitute is found. That is exactly the way the Antisaloon League feels about the matter and if the wets can derive any comfort out of that they are welcome to it."

Man in Frederick Ends Life by Shot

Maurice C. Easton, 46, Kills Self After Writing Note to Wife.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., March 12.—Depressed over financial troubles, Maurice C. Easton, 46, wholesale shipping clerk, committed suicide today in his garage. Easton reported for work at the usual hour, and soon afterward went out and purchased a 38-caliber pistol.

He then went home and directed a note to his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Easton, which read as follows: "Dorothy—Send some one to the garage. I will be there."

Mrs. Easton found the note on the kitchen floor several hours after her husband left, and sent a young man to the garage. As he pushed open the door he found Easton's body and the pistol by his side. Justice Alton Y. Bennett, acting coroner, gave a verdict of suicide. Besides his wife Easton is survived by five children, ranging in age from 2 to 16 years.

ice and cooperation with State activities along the same line.

A total of $52,819,245 was allocated yesterday by Secretary Hurley for river and harbor works and surveys in all parts of the United States as a contribution to unemployment relief.

The allotment will leave a reserve of only $9,300,000 of the regular $60,000,000 appropriation made by Congress.

It also included the entire available balance of the $22,500,000 emergency appropriation for unemployment relief and part of the regular rivers and harbors fund appropriated for last year which had not been expended.

The largest single allotment was for the Missouri River, including $6,149,800 for work from Kansas City to the mouth of the river, $910,000 from Kansas City to Sioux City and a special allotment of $590,000 from Kansas City to the mouth, from the emergency construction act.

Ten of the projects carried allotments for more than $1,000,000. Work along the Mississippi was included in six separate items amounting to $4,684,185.

Capital Woman Says Fake Aims Direct Opium Policy

European and Near East Nations Assailed for Acts at Geneva.

Shanghai, March 12 (A.P.).—Mrs. Hamilton Wright, of Washington, D. C., asserted today certain European and Near East countries interested in world opium traffic were attempting through the League of Nations to influence China's Nationalist government to establish a legalized opium monopoly.

Although ostensibly seeking a gradual suppression of opium traffic, Mrs. Wright said, these members of the league were hoping through the proposed monopoly to perpetuate trade in the drug with their countries.

Mrs. Wright made her accusations after touring the Far East two months, studying the opium and narcotic problem. For five years she was an assessor of the advisory committee of the League of Nations and she was a member of the American delegation to the international opium conference in Geneva in 1925.

U. S. RAIL OPERATION IN WAR IS OPPOSED

B. & O. Chief Thinks Private Control Would Be Fairer All Around.

(Associated Press.)

Private instead of public operation of the railroads in time of war was recommended to the War Policies Commission yesterday by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, and R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railway Association.

They advocated the creation of a skeleton organization of railroad executives in peace time which could instantly at the outbreak of a war operate the Nation's transportation system as a unit.

Characterizing Government control of the railroads during the World War as "unfair," Willard said under the proposed plan "the results would be more satisfactory and it would be fairer to the properties."

Discussing the broader phases of mobilizing industry in such a way as to eliminate profiteering, Willard indorsed the plan proposed by Bernard M. Baruch, former head of the War Industries Board, to fix prices. He expressed some doubt, however, about the practicability of Baruch's proposal to "freeze" all prices at the outbreak of hostilities at the pre-war figure.

Willard favored limiting war-time profits to peace-time levels, but said he was opposed to eliminating all profits during a conflict because he believed that even in war industry is entitled to reasonable returns.

He also opposed proposals to require a referendum of the people before this country could go to war.

Fire Conference Held in Frederick

State Forestry Officials and Wardens Discuss Means of Prevention.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., March 12.—Fire wardens from Western Maryland, embracing the Catoctin South Mountain district and officials of the State forestry department held a conference here today, at which fire prevention and suppression was discussed.

F. W. Beasley, State forester, principal speaker, told of aims and purposes of the department. Walter J. Quick, of Cumberland, assistant forester; H. C. Buckingham, of Cumberland, district forester, and C. Cyril Klein, city forester, discussed ways and means to prevent and cope with mountain fires. H. A. Clepper, of Mount Alton, Pa., head of the Pennsylvania department of forests and waters, discussed preservation in that State.

William G. Feaga, of Yellow Springs, was awarded a silver cup for doing the most effective work on mountain fires during the year.

MAN, 58, DROWNS IN FALL OFF DAM

job. He had been employed there for only four days. When time for his hourly round on inspection came, Albert L. Bible, of New Alexandria, Va., and I. McDaniel, of 1005 Virginia avenue southeast, another night watchman, and he were to cross from one of the company's dredges to the other.

Mr. Bible says he told Mr. Jenkins to cross over by the coffer dam, because he felt that this method would be safer for the elderly workman. He and Mr. McDaniels intended to row around by boat.

Bible and McDaniels met safely on the second dredge, but Jenkins failed to appear. After a few moments, Mr. Bible says, he and McDaniels became alarmed and started to call aloud to the missing watchman. They received no answer.

Then Bible and McDaniels retraced the way across the coffer dam. Bible says he happened to glance down and caught sight of something just under the water. It was the top of Jenkins' head, and its baldness made it visible to the two on top of the dam.

Although Jenkins had slipped into 14 feet of water, he was wearing a heavy overcoat and other heavy clothing, which kept his body from sinking to the bottom.

Bible and McDaniels immediately called to Charles Boyd, of Baltimore, foreman, and the three men pulled the watchman from the water and carried his body to the dredge.

Bible ran to a telephone, approximately a quarter of a mile away, and put in an emergency call which was answered by the Fire Rescue Squad and headquarters police. Later an ambulance from Emergency Hospital came on the scene.

The rescue squad and Dr. W. Bruner, of Emergency Hospital, worked over the man, but to no avail. Dr. Bruner gave one injection of adrenalin without apparent result and about ten minutes later gave another one. Jenkins was pronounced dead after this second injection at 9 o'clock.

Jenkins is survived by his wife and four sons, Vincent, 12; William, 15; Frank, 17, and Benjamin, 18.

His wife, Anne, last saw her husband yesterday afternoon when he left for work. The news of his death was being withheld from her last night and she was staying with her mother at 1410 Montello avenue northeast.

Fire Damages Forestville Hall.

Fire last night in the chimney of the Woodmen's Hall in Forestville, Md., did damage estimated at about $300. The blaze started during a card party given for the benefit of several sick residents of the town. Fire companies from Capitol Heights, Greater Capitol Heights, and Marlboro responded to the alarm.

MRS. WHOLEAN SUES AGED BENEFACTRESS

Joins With Contractors in $20,640 Action Against Mrs. Henderson.

The legal entanglements of Mrs. Beatrice Henderson Wholean and Mrs. Mary F. Henderson, widow of former United States Senator John B. Henderson, were further enmeshed last night when Mrs. Wholean joined with the William P. Lipscomb Co. in a suit for $20,640.49 with interest at 6 per cent from January 22, 1930, against Mrs. Henderson.

The suit arose out of a mechanic's lien filed by the Lipscomb Co. upon a palatial building at Sixteenth and Lamont streets northwest, which was built for Mrs. Henderson by the Lipscomb Co. from plans and specifications drawn by Howe Totten.

The suit declares that the company was to furnish material and labor, which, the company charges, was done. When the building was completed, Mrs. Henderson paid $77,246.19 of a total cost price of $97,777.56. The difference, $20,640.19 was not paid, according to the suit specifications, and a mechanic's lien was placed against the premises on March 17, 1930.

In April, 1930, Mrs. Wholean advanced to the company, the sum remaining to be paid, and the present suit is filed to collect what she thus advanced. The papers, drawn by Attorneys Tobriner and Graham, ask that the court order the property sold and their claim met from the proceeds of the sale.

Family of Five Beaten Senseless and Robbed

Fulton, Ky., March 12 (A.P.).—A family of five was beaten into unconsciousness by robbers, who looted a home near here last night and fled in their victims' automobile, and today authorities of Tennessee and Kentucky were searching for two Negro suspects.

P. J. Dillon and his wife were first clubbed and threatened with death. Then the robbers attacked Dillon's three sons, beat them severely and left them gagged and helpless.

School Suspends 17 on Rum Counts

University of Minnesota to Investigate Alleged Liquor Activities.

St. Paul, March 12 (A.P.).—Reports of drinking and bootlegging at University of Minnesota Farm School brought suspensions to seventeen students today and a threat of investigation of the liquor situation at the University of Minnesota by the Legislature.

Simultaneously, University of Minnesota authorities announced they were investigating suspected liquor law violations near the campus. An official statement said "bootleggers and purveyors of liquor have been increasing their activities around the campus at a rapid rate," and President Lotus D. Coffman declared he wanted "a general cleanup" of the situation.

J. O. Christianson, acting principal of the farm school, an academic institution similar to a high school, ordered the suspensions. Ten of the students involved later appeared at the State Capitol with the avowed intention of appealing to the Legislature from the order preventing completion of their courses.

Reputed Ohio Jail Bomb Plot Bared

Alleged Plans Are Balked; Ring Leaders Confess, Is Claim.

Columbus, Ohio, March 12 (A.P.).—An alleged plot to dynamite the Junction City Prison brick plant and release convicts working there was reported to have been thwarted by authorities today when five of the ring leaders were taken from the plant and brought to Ohio Penitentiary here.

Superintendent Blosser, of the brick plant, reported he had found dynamite in a clay bank outside the stockade and that he learned the dynamiting was to have occurred next Sunday night. The explosion, he understood, was to have blasted the dormitory where prisoners are confined when not working.

The ring leaders, Blosser said, admitted the plot and led him to the spot where the explosives were cached.

Special Session to Act On World Court Urged

(Associated Press.)

A delegation headed by Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan, chairman of the national World Court committee, yesterday requested President Hoover to call a special session of the Senate in November to act on American adherence to the World Court.

Gen. O'Ryan said his committee was the "mouthpiece for 57 national organizations concerned with the control of war. The world disarmament conference is to meet on February 2, 1932, he said, and the attitude of the United States might largely determine its success or failure.

CHARGE OF BONUS FRAUD CONTINUED

Defendant Changes His Plea to One of Not Guilty in Alleged Forgery.

Joseph Frye, former employe of the Veterans' Hospital at Old Point Comfort, Va., arrested here Saturday afternoon when special agents of the Veterans' Bureau and detective sergeants raided a rooming house on Pennsylvania avenue near Second street northwest and seized six men, was given a continuance yesterday when he appeared before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage on a charge of forgery.

The complaint upon which Frye was taken before the commissioner declared that he had presented a "false and forged" application for a loan on a soldier's bonus. The soldier named was Michael J. Higgins, now a patient at the Old Point Comfort Hospital.

Frye first entered a plea of guilty. He explained that he had been given permission by Higgins to sign his name. Later on he withdrew this plea and entered a plea of not guilty. He was ordered held under $500 bond pending hearing, now set for Tuesday. He was committed to jail in default of the bond.

Frank Burke, a United States secret service operator, signed the formal papers in which charges were leveled at Frye.

ACCOUNT OF SLAYING BY BEAUTY CHECKED

Charlotte Nash, widow by her own hand, wrote. "My husband drank wine and whisky."

"Later I went into the boudoir, put on my pajamas and returned to the living room where my husband was working a cross-word puzzle. I started to study Italian, when he looked up and said:

"You must have an Italian lover. I revoke and will disinherit your children."

"He then walked into the kitchen and drank more whisky. I went into the bedroom and placed a revolver under the pillow of my twin bed, because several times before he had threatened to kill me.

"My husband came into the room. He undressed. He said: 'I would kill you rather than let you have an Italian lover.' I answered: 'Have no fear on that score.'

"Then he started choking me. I grabbed the revolver and fired point blank. He staggered out of the room. I pursued him, firing several times. Then I fainted.

"As soon as I revived I started a search for the concierge. I fainted again."

While awaiting the police Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger removed her blood-strained pink pajamas. She dressed herself in a brown sports suit which she had worn on the golf links.

The body of her dead husband at present lies unclad in the morgue in Nice, in accordance with the custom of handling persons murdered in France.

Self-defense was the hysterical plea of the young widow during the long grilling by the police. She clung to her story through hours of questioning.

She pictured Nixon-Nirdlinger, 54 and gray, as a love-crazed husband, jealous over the imagined affair with a handsome Italian tutor.

Most Americans here believe that Mrs. Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger will be acquitted of the charge of murdering her husband.

They base their predictions on her plea of self defense and the marks on her throat, which she says were made by her husband in a jealous rage.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 12 (U.P.). The body of Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, who was shot and killed by his wife last night in France, will be brought to Philadelphia for burial as soon as arrangements for transportation can be made.

This announcement was made this afternoon by Samuel F. Nirdlinger, son of the slain man, after he had talken by transatlantic telephone with Charles Loeb, his father's attorney, in Paris.

Samuel Nirdlinger said he knew of no troubles between his father and the former Miss Charlotte Nash and he could not understand any reason for the shooting. He withheld any opinion as to his attitude in the affair until he receives complete details from his father's attorney in Paris.

"The tragedy, of course, is a terrible shock to me," he said, "and I am awaiting complete information on it."

Quarrel Causing Death Not Known of by Family

Philadelphia, March 12 (A.P.).—Samuel F. Nirdlinger, who is ill at his home in Merion, a suburb, has not read detailed accounts of the shooting at Nice, France, of his father, Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, although he was told about the tragedy.

He declared he knew of no quarrel between his father and the former Miss Charlotte Nash. His wife said no word had been received from the Nixon-Nirdlingers since they sailed for Europe in the fall.

"We are terribly upset," she said. "Mr. and Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger left for Europe at the end of last October, or early in November, and we have had no letters or cables since.

"So far as we know, there was not a thing wrong between my father-in-law and his wife. If they have quarreled recently, we didn't know it."

Business associates of Nixon-Nordlinger said the theater magnate and his wife sailed on October 29, 1930, on the Berengaria.

Later they spent a month in St. Moritz, Switzerland, and visited Paris. While they were at the Switzerland resort, friends received word that they were having a "delightful" time.

The family name of the dead theatrical manager was Nirdlinger. His father was Samuel F. Nixon, widely known in theatrical circles in his day.

Samuel Nixon's father was Frederick Nirdlinger, who was said to have been one of the founders of Fort Wayne, Ind. He refused to have his name used by any "fly by night showman," when Samuel announced he would enter the theatrical business, so Samuel adopted the name of Nixon, and Samuel's son called himself Nixon-Nirdlinger.

Kin of Famous Leader Dies.

White Springs, Fla., March 12 (A.P.).—Nathan Bedford Forrest, grandson of the famous Confederate general and one of the organizers of the Ku Klux Klan, died here last night. He came here about two weeks ago from Atlanta. The body will be taken to Memphis, Tenn., for burial.

Byrd Robbed of Overcoat While Posing for Camera

Jacksonville, Fla., March 12 (A.P.).—Admiral Richard E. Byrd is without a good overcoat today because he was accommodating and tried, while in Florida, to do as the Floridians do.

Newspaper photographers surrounded him when he arrived at the railway station here yesterday. In Florida it isn't customary for any one to have a picture taken while wearing an overcoat, they explained, and wouldn't he please lay it aside.

He handed the coat to a bystander and the picture boys did their work. The stranger, however, had vanished and so had the overcoat.

DR. R. C. ANDREWS TO BE GIVEN HONOR

Will Receive Hubbard Gold Medal From Geographic Society Today.

When Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, discoverer of fossils of nearly 100 species of prehistoric animals that lived in the Gobi Desert of Asia, lectures before the National Geographic Society this evening at the Washington Auditorium about his most recent expedition, he will receive the highest honor the society bestows, the Hubbard Gold Medal.

Presentation will be made by Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the society. Dr. Andrews will be the ninth man to receive this highest geographic award, bestowed upon only eight other men in 43 years of the society's history. Other recipients were Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, Roald Amundsen, Capt. Robert E. Bartlett Grove, Karl Gilbert, Sir Ernest H. Schackleton, Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

For 24 years Dr. Andrews has been associated with the American Museum of Natural History, in New York, and his explorations have ranged from studies of whales in the far northern seas to his later series of expeditions for the earliest home of the human race in Central Asia, where he found the famous dinosaur eggs, probably the most popularly known of his discoveries.

The trustees of the National Geographic Society will entertain Dr. Andrews at luncheon today at the Cosmos Club.

Mueller Reported To Be Gravely Ill

Former German Chancellor May Have Operation; Death Rumored.

Berlin, March 12 (A.P.).—Former Chancellor Hermann Mueller lay seriously ill tonight and surgeons will consult at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning on the advisability of an operation.

Dr. Mueller was severely ill all day, but no crisis was expected in the night. Earlier today a report was circulated by the semiofficial Wolff News Bureau that the former chancellor had died, but the rumor was quickly denied. Later the Wolff Bureau gave out the following statement:

"The premature report of Dr. Mueller's death, received at Social Democratic headquarters in the Reichstag Building, aroused expressions of sympathy from members of the Reichstag, then in session. The news purportedly came from the attending physician, but a few minutes later the report was denied at the hospital, where it was said the surgeons had not yet decided whether to operate."

Kansas Has Plans To Use Chair Again

Legislature Favors Capital Punishment After 61 Years of Idleness.

Topeka, Kans., March 12 (A.P.).—After 61 years without an execution, the State of Kansas is preparing to restore capital punishment.

The electric chair will be used to cope with present day crime conditions if Gov. Harry C. Woodring approves bills passed by the Legislature today making first degree murder and robbery with firearms capital offenses, and providing for installation of a chair at the State Penitentiary.

The governor, who is personally opposed to capital punishment, would not disclose what action he would take. However, he said recently he would sign the measures if they passed the Senate with "overwhelming majorities" similar to the three-to-one vote by which they were adopted by the House.

I. C. C. Move Urged To Gain Bus Ruling

Electric Railway Concerns See Need for Regulation Plan.

(Associated Press.)

The Interstate Commerce Commission was urged yesterday by Thomas Conway, jr., president of the Cincinnati & Lake Erie Railroad, to recommend regulations for motor bus and truck transportation lines. He appeared in behalf of a group of electric lines after J. M. Pogue, vice president of the same company, had testified electric railway lines in Ohio had borne a heavier burden of taxes than their highway competitors.

"The public interest requires the effective regulation by the States and the Federal Government of public carriers by highway," Mr. Conway said. "The present policy of taxing motor carriers less heavily than railroads is directly subsidizing unfair competition."

He also suggested that truck and bus service be required to pay a reasonable rental for the use of highways. The system of regulation which should be adopted, he said, would allow only such highway transport operations as would be found necessary by commissions which would control rates and services.

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—Flames whipped by a brisk wind from the sea destroyed the Ocean View Hotel, large frame structure at Rockaway Beach, today. Only a change in the breeze saved many other structures along the boardwalk. The hotel was unoccupied.

SWEEPING DRY DRIVE IN U. S. TO BE INAUGURATED JULY 1

59 gallons of beer and 1,969 gallons of liquor.

Declines to Comment.

He declined to say whether any of the 150 new agents at work had been placed on duty in the Washington area, or how the new drive will affect this region.

It is known that 40 agents of the new 500 will be detailed to District 4, embracing the District of Columbia, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia. How they will be distributed remained a secret. This will increase the Federal dry force in this unit to 187 men, as revealed in hearings of the House appropriations committee prior to passage of the bill by the last Congress giving 11,369,500 to the Prohibition Bureau.

The bill granted an appropriation for puchase of automobiles, the $50,000 authorized to be spent solely for light fast cars, costing less than $1,000 apiece. Director Woodcock pointed out that at present the motor vehicle squadron includes only seized machines of every make and description, many wholly inadequate.

He disclosed that when the augmented force is at work in July 90 new men will be operating in New York State in addition to the 249 there now, making it by far the largest unit in the country.

The Chicago district, embracing Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin, will receive 80 more agents, while an extra 70 will be added to the existing force in Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey.

"These allocations represent our best guess as to where men are most needed to thwart the plans of large-scale commercial violators," he said.

Course to Be Given.

In preparation for assimilation of the new men Director Woodcock announced a "refresher course," at which the 24 enforcement instructors will undergo an intensive period of study here in June to enable them to have the added agents thoroughly trained for maximum efficiency before July 15.

Regarding the "intelligence division," he said that he would create it from a $50,000 appropriation included in the last bill for which no purpose was specified, after the original item concerning a fund for court appeals had been stricken out. He said he intended to obtain a mass of facts and figures on liquor manufacture and distribution not available now, but that he did not intend to make public any of the findings by this secret force.

He said he intended to leave here possibly Sunday night for Kentucky to make his first trip of inspection in the section before continuing on to Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma. Thus far, he explained, he has inspected field work in about half the States.

Five Jewish rabbis from New York called on Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman and on President Hoover yesterday to ask liberalization of the present strict regulations governing distribution of sacramental wine. They complained also of the requirement that each rabbi account for wine allotments. President Hoover was quoted as saying that he would take the matter up with Director Woodcock.

BRITAIN EXPECTS GANDHI AT NEXT INDIA SESSION

hailed the result of the Irwin-Gandhi conversations as "a victory for common sense."

Mr. Baldwin explained the recent disclosure that he opposed Conservative participation in any round-table conference in India by saying he believed any immediate negotiations in India should be carried out by the government itself and not by any parliamentary delegation.

Although he did not say specifically the Conservatives would participate in the forthcoming London conference, the tone of his speech led hearers to conclude he would accept an invitation to do so. Dramatically, Mr. Baldwin quoted another's speech of twelve years ago in the House of Commons urging cooperation with India, and said it expressed his own views with a felicity of phrase he could not hope to equal.

Name Is Demanded.

"Name, name," demanded members of the house. Mr. Baldwin half-turned toward Winston Churchill, who split with him on the Indian question and became leader of the die-hard element. With an indicative move of his hand toward Mr. Churchill, sitting only a seat away, the former premier continued: "When I heard my right honorable friend make that speech——" Churchill joined in the laughter.

Bringing to the point the question of his leadership, which is being assailed by the "empire crusaders" and other elements within his party, Mr. Baldwin said he would carry on with his policy as long as he was the Conservative leader.

So rousingly did he run away with the debate that Mr. Churchill, who spoke soon afterward, found his audience restless and the house became empty almost as soon as he sat down. He spoke for more than an hour, making an onslaught on the Conservative party's official Indian policy.

Called Lawbreakers' Victory.

He described the Irwin-Gandhi agreement as "a victory for the lawbreakers who have consented for the time being partially to lay aside their lawbreaking acts," but said that, as far as practical steps which had been taken were concerned, he was in entire agreement with Mr. Baldwin's decision.

Referring to an earlier statement by Wedgewood Benn, secretary for India, that the committee would continue negotiations during the summer preparatory to another general conference in India, probably in the autumn, the prime minister said the government was going to get the committee to resume work in London as quickly as it could.

Mr. MacDonald declared a request had already been sent to the Viceroy of India asking him to do his best to arrange an early meeting of the committee.

Reorganization of Road By B. & O. Is Opposed

(Associated Press.)

A group of stockholders of the old Chicago & Alton Railroad, represented by James A. Reed, former senator from Missouri, yesterday petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission to block the reorganization of that property by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The Baltimore & Ohio, after purchasing the road at a receivership sale last December, asked permission of the commission to pass the ownership to a new corporation, the Alton Railroad Co.

Americans Paid Bills Well During Six Months

(Associated Press.)

The American people paid their bills satisfactorily, on the whole, during the latter half of 1930.

A survey conducted by the Commerce Department and the National Retail Credit Association, made public yesterday, placed the bad debt losses of retailers on credit accounts at six-tenths of 1 per cent of the sales made for the period. This compared with half of 1 per cent for the corresponding period of 1929.

FITZPATRICK READY TO TAKE NEW POST

Assistant District Attorney to Assume Charge of Jury Hearings.

John R. Fitzpatrick, Assistant District Attorney in charge of the Police Court Branch, about whose actions in dismissing a number of gambling cases recently—raged a storm of protest by police, has been transferred from that post and Monday will assume charge of the District grand jury hearings.

Assistant District Attorney Julian Richards, who has been in charge of the grand jury, will take over trial of court cases and Wilbert McInerney will take charge of the Police Court office vacated by Mr. Fitzpatrick. Michael F. Keogh, now in Police Court, will cooperate with Mr. McInerney in handling cases there.

At the time Mr. Fitzpatrick dismissed a series of gambling cases, Inspector T. R. Bean, in charge of the special investigation squad of the Police Department, made a report to Maj. Henry G. Pratt sustaining the action of the policemen who had been thought at fault in not notifying the prosecuting attorney that they would be unable to attend the court because of their presence in a superior court. At the same time, United States Attorney Leo Rover upheld the action of his assistant and there the incident rested. The cases were later reinstated.

Office to Receive Tax Filing at Night

Special Late Hours to Be Kept by Collector Here Tomorrow.

With a last-minute rush of taxpayers expected, the office of deputy collector of internal revenue for the District in the Internal Revenue Building at Twelfth street and Constitution avenue northwest, will be open tomorrow night until midnight for income-tax filing.

The period for filing returns ends at midnight Monday, inasmuch as March 15, the usual closing date, falls on Sunday this year. Residents of Washington, it was stated, can either file their returns with the local deputy collector or send them directly to Collector of Internal Revenue Galen L. Tait, Custom House, Baltimore.

Although the deputy collector's office will remain open tomorrow night, revenue officers assigned to twelve banks and trust companies to aid taxpayers in the preparation of their returns will observe the usual hours at these institutions.

Opposition to Aviation Predicted Near Defeat

Opposition to aviation will go the way of that which followed introduction of the steamship, railroad and automobile, Maj. Harry M. Horton, of Eastern Air Transports, yesterday told the Cosmopolitan Club at its luncheon at Carlton Hotel.

Maj. Norton, who has been flying since 1912, was an aviator in the World War and who invented the radio beam for guiding planes, said flying today is comparatively safe. He said his own company in 1930 flew 35,000,000 passenger miles without hurting a passenger.

WOMAN HELD IN FATAL SHOOTING

Associated Press Photo.

Mrs. Daisy Dycus, 24, mother of two children, was held for questioning by Hopkinsville, Ky., police after Jim McClure, 39, a photographer, was shot to death in his studio. Mrs. Dycus, also wounded by pistol shots, said McClure had attempted to kill her. Mrs. Dycus' husband, Patrolman Edmont Dycus, died a month ago under mysterious circumstances. She is shown here with a relative.

DENISON RUM CASE MAY GO TO JURY SOMETIME TODAY

tone was quiet and rather unemotional.

Justice Gordon asked Mr. Leahy if he meant to limit his questions about liquor purchases by or for Mr. Denison in the course of his last Panama trip and Mr. Leahy said he had not meant to do that, and immediately asked a series of questions to take in all possibilities, including the one that Mr. Denison might have taken at least one drink when in wet territory. Mr. Denison's answer was the same. He had not taken a drink; he had done nothing which would justify or explain the presence of a trunk of liquor in his office in the House Office Building or elsewhere, he said.

Mr. Denison told the same story outlined by Everett Sanders, of defense counsel, in the opening defense statement to the jury. When he arrived in New York it was a cold and bitter day. He had assisted various women passengers and had hurriedly completed his own business incident to arrival and arrangement for shipment of baggage and left the dock, he said. The only explanation he could offer for the appearance of the trunk of liquor in his office was that there had been a mix-up of baggage.

Mr. Leahy developed the fact that the liquor trunk had been in Mr. Denison's office from Wednesday until Saturday noon, unopened and unquestioned until prohibition agents arrived. Mr. Denison said he thought it was his trunk and that it contained a set of dishes for the wife of a former secretary. This was borne out by Miss Lucille Lee, his present secretary and by his former secretary.

No New Testimony.

There was nothing essentially new in the testimony heard yesterday. Albert Spear, chemist, was the last Government witness. He testified that there was a difference of 9 per cent in the alcoholic content of two bottles of supposed Scotch whisky offered by the Government as evidence. The whisky presumably was manufactured by the same concern and bought at the same time.

Questioned by Mr. Leahy, Mr. Spear could not explain the difference, saying that the greatest difference he had found in the past in the alcoholic content of legitimate whisky produced by the same manufacturer was between 2 and 3 per cent.

Mr. Leahy evidently was seeking to have Mr. Spear officially confirm a rumor about the court that the Government evidence was merely colored alcohol flavored to represent Scotch whisky, but he was not successful.

Confirm Denison Story.

Charles E. Lane, sr., of St. Louis, a patent medicine manufacturer, brother-in-law of Mr. Denison, and Charles E. Lane, jr., the nephew of Mr. Denison, who accompanied him to Panama, took the stand to confirm the defense contention, as did Fred Fenton, of New York, engaged in the bond business, with whom young Lane stayed after Mr. Denison came on to Washington.

There was a parade of members of Congress as character witnesses, including Representatives Richard Yates, of Illinois; Lea, of California; Burtness, of North Dakota, and Thatcher, of Kentucky. Senator Glenn, of Illinois; Oldham Paisley, editor and publisher of the Daily Republican, published in Marion: Ill., Mr. Denison's home town, and W. Bissell Thomas, a Washington lawyer, who came from Illinois, were others who swore that Mr. Denison was widely known as a man of sobriety and excellent character.

QUIZ INTO GAS OWNERSHIP IS SEEKING DATA IN BOSTON

it "Representing Central Public Service Corporation."

No Change in Ownership.

The Chicago corporation, it stated, will manage the companies named "as integral parts of its system." No change in ownership is involved, it added.

"Albert E. Pierce, president, states that Central Public Service Corporation will not own any stock interest in any of these companies, either directly or indirectly. The principal ownership of the four units is vested in the Washington and Suburban Companies, a common law trust formed in April, 1929," the statement declares.

The Maryland Public Service Commission yesterday authorized the Washington & Suburban Cos. to acquire the Washington Suburban Gas Co. of Hyattsville. The petition for the change in ownership had been pending for several weeks, but action was held up while the Seaboard Investment Trust changed its name to Washington & Suburban Cos.

Some time ago George A. G. Wood, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., said in Hyattsville that the change in ownership would probably result in lower gas rates for patrons of the Hyattsville company. The Washington Gas Light Co. is also owned by the Washington & Suburban Cos.

W., B. & A. Plans Shuttle Service

New Plan Will Affect Only Baltimore-Annapolis Line.

Inauguration of a shuttle service during midday hours by the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Railway Co. between Baltimore and Annapolis was made public yesterday in Baltimore, effective 4 o'clock on the morning of April 12, subject to approval by the Maryland Public Service Commission.

The rearrangement, designed to cut down operating expenses of the railway now in receivership, affects only the South Shore and will not curtail service, declared Harry T. Connolly, the road's general manager.

The company plans to operate during midday hours, with traffic ordinarily light, a shuttle service from the Naval Academy Junction station to Annapolis. Mr. Connolly said that another arrangement has been designed to operate motor buses for passenger traffic between Naval Academy Junction and Fort George G. Meade.

Separate Records Asked of Utilities

Commissioners Order Gas Concerns to Isolate Appliance Accounts.

The Washington Gas Light Co. and the Georgetown Gas Co. were yesterday instructed in an order adopted by the Public Utilities Commission to separate their accounts involving sales of appliances from those of the regular gas service.

The order, which becomes effective April 1, prevents the expenses of this subsidiary business from being charged to general operating expenses, which in the final analysis determine rates to District consumers.

Under the new policy recently adopted by the gas companies, sales of gas appliances has amounted to thousands of dollars. The equipment has been sold at cost, or below, it is said.

GEN. JADWIN GIVEN MILITARY FUNERAL

800 Troops Escort Cortege as Guns Fire Salute at Arlington Entrance.

Funeral services, impressive for their military splendor and formality, were held yesterday for Lieut. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, being one of the largest military funerals held in Washington in many years.

The service was held at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor, officiated. Further services were conducted by him at the graveside, in Arlington Cemetery, on the brow of a knoll overlooking the river.

As the cortege wound its way across the Potomac and to the entrance of the cemetery, it was met by an escort of about 800 troops from Fort Myer, and a salute of 15 guns was fired by cannon located on the fort grounds just outside the cemetery. The largest available escort of troops from the Washington area was gathered for the funeral.

Gen. Pershing was one of a large group of high ranking officers, who attended the funeral and followed the body to the cemetery. Secretary and Mrs. Hurley also were present.

Troops taking part in the escort were the Fort Myer Band, a squadron of the Third Cavalry, a battalion of the Sixteenth Field Artillery and Thirteenth Regiment of Engineers, commanded by Lieut. Col. Elliott J. Dent, and a squad from the Washington Headquarters Company, which fired the last volleys over the grave.

Gen. Jadwin, who was the retired chief of Army Engineers, died in Panama City, on March 2. He served in connection with the building of the Panama Canal, in the World War, and recently in drafting the Jadwin plan for the Mississippi River control. He was in Panama at the time of his death presiding as chairman of President Hoover's interocean canal board.

MONTGOMERY CIVIC GROUP FAVORS BILLS

Meeting at Bethesda School Approves Tax and Other Finance Reports.

Five reports affecting matters of public finance in Montgomery County were approved last night at a meeting of the Montgomery County Civic Federation in the Bethesda School.

The reports had been prepared and presented by the committee on public finance and budget, of which Frederick P. Lee is chairman.

The first resolution approved pending legislation in the General Assembly, which would reorganize the system of assessment and reassessment of property for tax purposes in Montgomery County. Briefly, the bill would provide for the appointment of three county assessors, who would assess one-fifth of the county once every five years and who would replace the present 39 assessors who are allocated to election districts.

The resolution also recommends that the bill be amended to provide for publication of assessment lists.

The second report commended the county authorities for submitting bond issues to the Legislature in an amount sufficient to care for all school and road projects approved by the federation for the years 1931 to 1933 as well as for the refinancing of the existing indebtedness.

The third report indorses the proposed act creating a county disbursement committee composed of the president of the board of county commissioners as chairman, the county treasurer, and the attorney to the county commissioners, and provides additional compensation for the president of the board and the attorney.

Favors Voucher System.

It also recommends an amendment which would require that vouchers be submitted for approval and payment in such form as will permit of complete identification of the charges and show by the payee.

The fourth report indorsed the policy of granting taxpayers the alternative of paying taxes other than front-foot benefit charges collected by or through the county treasurer, either in one annual payment, as at present, or in semiannual installments.

In the fifth report the federation approved the financial features of proposed legislation amending the organic law of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, with an amendment eliminating the authority to establish a sinking fund and requiring the issuance of bonds in serial form only.

The Federation reaffirmed its position as to the equity of a State contribution of two-ninths of the cost of land acquisition for park projects under the Cramton law.

Official's Auto Damaged.

While the federation was deliberating the siden of the Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department, half a block away, sounded and a few moments later County Policeman Theodore Volten appeared in the meeting and notified Charles W. Hopkins, of Woodside, chairman of the roads, streets and bridges committee, that the rear seat of his automobile had been burned away.

It was announced by Maj. Edward Brooke Lee that bills are to be introduced in the General Assembly providing for increasing the salaries of county commissioners from $1,200 to $1,800 yearly, and providing for two meetings a wek of the board of county commissioners, and to require bonding of county bank deposits.

A proposal that $300 a year traveling expenses be provided for the board of education was disapproved because it was held that it would place the body on a salary basis.

Maryland Passes "Snoopers' Bill"

Elimination of Payment of Informers' Fees Is Given Approval.

Annapolis, Md., March 12 (A.P.).—A so-called "snoopers' bill" eliminating the payment of informers' fees was passed today by the State Senate after similar action by the House of Delegates, leaving only the signature of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie required to make it law.

The 28 senators present voted for the repeal.

At present half the amount of a fine collected from a person convicted under county prohibition or game-protection statutes is paid to the person who supplied the information on which the arrest was made. Maryland has no State-wide prohibition enforcement law.

Blue Ridge Inn Destroyed by Fire

Popular Summer Hotel Burns as 45-Mile Gale Fans Flames.

Special to The Washington Post.

Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., March 12. Blue Ridge Summit, popular summer pleasure resort for many Washington vacationists, was threatened by fire early yesterday, when a blaze originating in the Old Stone Inn quickly spread to nearby buildings while firemen stood by helpless as the flames were fanned by a 45-mile-an-hour gale.

The flames were seen rising from the roof of the unoccupied three-story hotel by a passerby, who sent in the alarm. The blaze had gained rapid headway before firemen arrived, and they concentrated their efforts on saving structures located nearby. Flying sparks set fire to a number of private homes, and for a time it was thought the Western Maryland Railway Station on the adjoining property, would be destroyed. The hotel was burned to the ground.

The summer colony is popular with many Washingtonians. It is located on the Pennsylvania State line, and for many seasons has attracted vacationists from all sections of the country.

HUSBAND WHO SLEW RIVAL IS VINDICATED

Hurtha Ira Dulaney Freed by Jury; Is Reconciled With Wife.

The man who killed another in defense of the sanctity of his home—Hurtha Ira Dulaney—yesterday was vindicated by the law. Then he became reconciled with his wife and began to reassemble the fragments of his home.

Within 60 hours after he shot William L. Huff, 26, whom he surprised in his apartment with Mrs. Dulaney, the grand jury had ignored the case against him and he went home to his children.

Dulaney's story is one of a man who desperately strove to keep his home inviolate and in exasperation slew the man who threatened to disrupt it. For his deed he has been exonerated—if not tautly praised—by the machinery of the law, his family, his friends and even the parents of the man he slew hold no rancor against him.

Now the Dulaneys and their four children are going to move from their home and the unpleasant memories it revives. They are going to find a home with Mrs. Dulaney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Johnson, who live a block from the Dulaney home on H street, near Thirteenth street northeast.

Dulaney, whose haggard face bears the story of the seven weeks' struggle he has mastered, leaned against the door of the apartment in which he fatally wounded Huff. His lusterless eyes dropped as he unfolded the story of his trouble.

$2,000,000 Ship Sells for $30,000

Ill-Fated Hopatcong Bid May Be Rejected by Present Owner.

Baltimore, March 12 (A.P.).—As the final chapter of her ill-starred career, the freight steamer Hopatcong was sold at auction here today for $30,000, a fraction of her cost, which was more than $2,000,000. The Boston Iron & Metal Co.'s bid was accepted, but shipping men said they doubted the sale would be ratified. The Shipping Board held a $108,000 mortgage on the ship.

Construction of the Hopatcong, a 6,600-ton vessel, was started during the World War, but was not completed until after the armistice. For ten years the craft was tied up.

Then the Jersey-American Steamship Co. sent her to the Black Sea from Baltimore. The Hopatcong returned February 10 with the captain bearing scars of stab wounds, her mutinous deck crew deserters in Russia, the mate in irons and a receiver waiting at the dock. The ship also had been in two collisions.

Speeder Politely Offers Policeman Tip of 50 Cents

Being arrested by a Montgomery County policeman is such a pleasant sensation that it almost could be rated an amusement, it appears from the case of T. Hubert, colored, of near Kensington, Md.

Hubert was stepping along at 45 miles an hour in a 20-mile zone on Connecticut avenue yesterday when Montgomery County Policeman E. R. Jones, of the Bethesda Substation, drove up and hailed him. At the invitation of the officer, Hubert was given a full and detailed lesson in what happens to persons arrested by that highly courteous force.

A short visit to Justice of the Peace A. L. Moore, who politely and painlessly extracted $3.50 collateral from the motorist and Hubert was told he could postpone his further lessons until he appeared before Judge Charles W. Woodward in Rockville Police Court.

Delighted with the extremely fine service he had been rendered, the smiling motorist reached into his pocket and produced a 50-cent tip which he offered the policeman. Officer Jones says this is the first time he has ever been offered a tip by a customer.

Policewoman Arrests Man; Detectives Wait in Vain

While two detective sergeants waited for a suspected shoplifter to appear in a D street store, Policewoman C. A. Clarke, of the Women's Bureau, arrested the suspect in another downtown department store.

Detective Sergts. Dennis J. Murphy and J. L. Billman had recovered a quantity of stolen goods from second-hand stores and were waiting for Edward Smith, 40, of Norfolk, Va., to reappear at a store. Meanwhile, Policewoman Clark arrested the man, who is held for investigation.

Stolen property valued at $300 was recovered, detectives say. Police say Smith admitted that the clothes he was wearing had been stolen.

His roommate, Ike Lazarus, said to have been implicated in the alleged thefts by the suspect, gave himself up at the First Precinct Station and was held for investigation.

Charge Dismissed And Man Weds Girl

Accusation Against Rodano Dropped by U.S.; Judge Marries Couple.

A kind-hearted assistant United States attorney doled out justice rather than law yesterday when he "nolle prossed" a serious charge against August Rodano, 20 years old, of Randolph street northwest, near Fourth street, to permit him to marry Miss Phyllis Leona Robbins, 15 years old, of Quebec street, near Georgia avenue northwest.

The couple went to the marriage license bureau, where they got the necessary papers, and Judge Mary O'Toole performed the ceremony that made them man and wife. Rodano had been held by police as a result of charges that he had taken his then sweetheart to a Maryland resort. Assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keogh was the man who withheld the charge against Rodano and then finally dropped it altogether.

Mrs. Rodano twice endangered her life when she went into gas-filled rooms to rescue, first, her mother and, several months later, her aunt.

Lynchburg Family Driven From Blazing Home in Night Attire.

Lynchburg, Va., March 12.—Late last night a passenger on a northbound Southern passenger train saw a fire in Fairview Heights as the train skirted that part of Lynchburg and when he reached the station he telephoned the fire department.

Apparatus from two stations were arriving as W. L. Krupel, his wife and three small children got out of their burning home. Mrs. Krupel was aroused by smoke and the family fled in their night attire into 30 degrees of temperature outside.

ORDERS ARE ISSUED TO SPEED UP CASES

Justices of Supreme Court Move to Adopt System Used in Cleveland.

The justices of the District Supreme Court yesterday issued formal orders putting into effect on April 10 the suggestions made by a group of lawyers appointed by the court to formulate ways and means of speeding up court procedure.

The committee of lawyers recommended, almost without change, the adoption of the system used in Cleveland, which they believed was the best and most expeditious of all the courthouse systems they examined in an extensive tour. Their findings were made public several weeks ago, and the action taken yesterday was in the nature of formally approving the recommendations made at that time.

Chief among the innovations will be the appointment of a motions court, with a motions justice, whose sole duty will be the disposal of applications and formal orders, thus freeing the trial judges from interruptions. There will also be an assignment justice, who will supervise the work of the assignment commissioner, Frederick C. O'Connell, who was recently appointed. The assignment justice will keep the trial judges supplied with cases, with attorneys, juries and witnesses ready to step into the first court that has no cases before it.

The actual official orders issued covered some fifteen pages of typewritten instructions for the guidance of lawyers, judges and others.

The court also issued instructions for the conduct of Commissioner William R. Harr, who is the first to occupy the position of commissioner in charge of veterans' suits against the Government.

Model Aircraft Tests Scheduled Tomorrow

The opening meet of the 1931 District of Columbia Model Aircraft Tournament will take place tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Stuart Junior High School, when the season's first official contest in scientific gliders and planes will be staged.

Beginning tomorrow the new classification will go into effect as follows: Novice, junior pilot, ace and silver ace. A novice registers but pays no fee, and has a new pin entirely different from the DCMAL wings. A junior pilot pays his registration fee for the league and receives his wings. In order to become a novice a boy or girl must make a flight of 5 seconds in all types of planes except that of glider, in which type 3 seconds qualifies him as a novice.

CAR'S TRICK BOTTOM HIDES ALLEGED RUM

Detectives Notice Auto and Halt Driver to Find Reputed Alcohol.

A false bottom that concealed twenty five-gallon cans of alleged alcohol was found by Detective Sergt. George Little and Detective G. C. Deyoe in an automobile they stopped yesterday at Michigan avenue and Quincy street northeast.

Sam Glasser, 26, who gave his occupation as a barber and his address as Baltimore, the driver of the automobile, was charged with possession of liquor.

Sergt. Little and Detective Deyoe were coming from Baltimore, where they had testified at a liquor trial, when they noticed an automobile preceding them had a low-slung back and a peculiarly placed gasoline tank.

They followed the car into the District, where they stopped it. In the concealed compartment they found the twentyy cans containing the alleged alcohol. Sergt. Little said the car was equipped with truck springs so that the load would not be perceptible; the gas tank, he said, had been placed so that the undercarriage of the car was not visible except from below.

verdicts ranging from not guilty to first degree murder carrying the death penalty.

Schroeder was returned to the jail to await the jury's decision. His family remained in the courtroom. A few spectators also held to their places.

Surrounded by his wife, and brothers and sisters, Schroeder appeared surprised and dazed by the verdict. His chin quivered and he turned to support his wife, who stood weeping. It was his first show of emotion during the trial.

The jury took six ballots before a verdict was reached. The first three, on a general question of guilty, showed a division of seven for conviction and five for acquittal. On the fourth, when arguments for a compromise verdict were started, two jurors voted for life imprisonment. On the fifth, there were five votes for involuntary manslaughter, and the final ballot brought the voluntary manslaughter verdict.

Ira M. Holmes, Schroeder's attorney, said he did not expect to appeal from the verdict.

THE PITY OF IT!

The Progressive conference has reached a lame and impotent conclusion. It contained a generous sprinkling of socialists, sovietists, political Ishmaelites and college dervishes who were thought to be capable of sounding blood-curdling alarms, but apparently they were overpowered by the soporific fumes emitted by Progressive senators. The stock of national reforms selected by the conference contains nothing new that is workable, and nothing old that is worth saving. The assortment of illogical and warmed-over proposals approved by the Progressives is excelled in variety and absurdity by any day's output of the honorable Congress of the United States.

The public is fully warranted in expressing its disappointment with the starveling output of the Progressive conference. The people expected something rich and strange which would show a clear path out of the country's jungle of troubles. They wanted light. They longed to hear the clarion call of inspired leadership. But they have received nothing but a handful of scranial straw. The conference, in fact, has subtracted from the sum total of public hope, leaving the Nation poorer than before. Was it right, was it fair, was it manly in the promoters of this conference to hold out false hopes of salvation, only to dash the cup from the lips that longed to quaff new and intoxicating liberty?

What an opportunity was open to the leaders of this conference! The nucleus of a mighty revolution was in their grasp. They had but to sound the note, and a new party would have sprung into being. It would have gathered in its astounding sweep all the malcontents, failures, visionaries, crack-brains, socialists, communists and university professors in the country. At its front could have marched the majestic Norris, by and with the consent and godspeed of the entire Republican party, or perhaps Senator Borah, by and with the consent of Norris—subject, of course, to reconsideration of confirmation. Sweeping onward, this new Progressive party could easily have drawn strength from the exhausted and bewildered old parties, by boldly proclaiming the advent of Communism as gloriously revealed by the saints and seers of Moscow.

Why was this tide in the affairs of men not taken at its flood? What paralyzed the will of Hamlet Norris, and appalled the iron nerve of Brutus Borah? Was it dread of the icy waters of the Republican Rubicon? Was it mere human fear of reprisals and retorsions that stayed their tongues and hands? If so, this is not the first time that enterprises of great pith and moment have been sicklied o'er by the pale cast of thought. Even heroes have their weak moments, as when Tartarin, dreaming conquests of Afric lions, turned and squeaked, "Nanette, my chocolate!" Norris may have pondered his Republican chairmanship, with its easy chairs and spacious offices; and Borah may have questioned at the critical moment whether it was wise to quit the party he despises, while it has a great chairmanship to bestow.

Mortals all, mortals all!

Nevertheless and notwithstanding, history will indict the begetters of the Progressive conference for this failure to seize the skirts of opportunity. Ordinary citizens will sigh and wonder what has become of the stuff of heroes. An expectant nation is left cruelly disillusioned. The tired old Republican and Democratic parties will take up the old burden, with even less information than before. The light that never was on the sea or shore is not to shine on the commonwealth. The new party has died abornin'.

FEDERATION AND SOVIET.

According to the criteria of the conference which has just closed here, American labor has placed itself in the position of being "unprogressive." Prof. Charles A. Beard, speaking for the insurgent group in answer to Senator Watson's questions, said that most Progressives agree that Soviet Russia should be recognized. William Green, speaking for the American Federation of Labor, declared that the working men of America are uncompromisingly opposed to recognizing the red regime. The procommunist dilettanti stand overruled by bona fide representatives of American workers.

The reason why the American Federation of Labor takes this stand is because the Soviet government has set out to destroy the federation and undo all that trade unions have accomplished since their organization. For years labor in this country has been building up machinery for collective bargaining. Working conditions have undergone wonderful improvements. Labor has made its influence felt. It has reached a position where amicable cooperation with industrial leaders is a common practice. The very nature of the Communist movement makes it a deadly enemy of American labor. If the program of the Soviet should succeed, labor in this country would be reduced to the level of Russia's starving peasants. Industry would have to resort to virtual slavery to compete with the Soviet. When American working men join in fighting this common menace they are acting to save their standard of living.

Mr. Green might have said much more. What is the attitude of the Federation of Labor on the shipment of American machinery and the migration of American engineers to Russia? Does the federation look with complacence upon the employment of its members in plants that furnish the reds with machinery for the prosecution of economic war on American labor? If so, then labor is fighting against itself. With one hand it is helping to destroy what it is trying to build up with the other.

The federation can perform a great service to its members and to the Nation by taking a definite stand against cooperating in the Soviet five-year plan. The great body of working men are not yet aware of the dangers that lurk in economic contact with Communism. It is up to the federation to guide the working masses away from the sophistry of politicians who claim to be champions of labor.

MR. KING WILL STUDY US.

Senator King has let it be known that he plans to spend two months in Washington during the coming summer studying the needs of the District government. The District must, of course, feel complimented when any senator gives up two months of vacationing or "politicking" to look into its affairs. But there is no indication that the outcome of Senator King's one-man investigation will work to the advantage of Washington's people.

During the two months that he intends to grant to the District Senator King hopes to devise plans for revising the taxation system as well as the local government. Revision of Washington's system of taxation is always a delightful job for Western senators. Mr. King is particularly interested because he has up his sleeve a scheme for levying both income and inheritance taxes in the District. His motives are unquestionably magnanimous. He wishes to secure a more equitable distribution of the tax burden among the people. The hope of saddling upon local residents a greater share of the expense of building a magnificent National Capital is, of course, incidental.

Senator King will have the support of every citizen in his effort to put through a measure expanding the authority of the District Commissioners. When Congress undertakes to act as a city council on minor details which ought to be left to administrative officials red tape and inefficiency can be the only result. But Congress is never enthusiastic about relinquishing its powers, and the tighter the strings are pulled around the neck of the District the more glowing accounts of "economy" congressmen have to tell the folks back home.

The study in which the District is most interested just now is that concerning its fiscal relations with the Federal Government. When Congress agrees to furnish its share of the cost of developing and maintaining the National Capital it will be time enough to talk about new taxes.

MR. BORAH'S DUMPING PLAN.

Senator Borah has not served as friend and hero of Soviet Russia for nothing. He is now ready to give America the benefits of his little excursions into communism. Out of his study of Soviet economics he evolves a plan to aid American farmers, which he lays before the national salvation conference.

Reduced to its simplest terms the plan of the Idaho senator is to inaugurate an American dumping program. He takes note of the fact that agriculture is suffering from overproduction. Instead of trying to restore a balance between supply and demand he proposes to dump the surplus abroad and have the Government pay farmers a bounty on it. Taxpayers would be called upon to supply funds to finance enormous agricultural exports at reduced prices. Encouraged by this Government subsidy, American farmers would produce more and more. The market for wheat produced in other countries would be ruined.

This is practically a duplication of the Soviet dumping program. In Russia the government controls trade, exploiting the country's natural resources and its labor, so that it may sell lower than any other country and undermine world markets. Senator Borah would have the United States Government do indirectly—through the proposed export debenture—what the reds are doing directly. He ought to call his proposal the American five-year plan.

The overproduction of wheat and other farm products is a problem throughout the world. Huge quantities of wheat are stored in eastern Europe awaiting a market. A conference was held in Paris a fortnight ago to devise plans for its disposal. Canada and Argentina are furnishing cargoes of wheat to Europe. Where can the United States dispose of its surplus wheat without dumping it on the glutted world market? When the Farm Board announced plans to sell a few million bushels abroad a few days ago a wave of resentment swept over Europe. What would happen if the Government began paying a bounty of 21 cents per bushel on wheat exports, as Senator Borah suggests, thus encouraging American farmers to increase their wheat production for dumping abroad? This country could expect nothing but embargoes against American goods and even more serious reprisals.

It is estimated that the carry-over of wheat this year will amount to 345,000,000 bushels, or 40 per cent of the 1930 crop. The market for American wheat abroad has been virtually cut off by the price-raising manipulations of the Farm Board. The price in this country has been held above that on the world market. As a result Canada and Argentina have taken over markets formerly supplied with American wheat. The United States is trying to produce wheat on a war-time scale, although it must be sold under conditions that have radically changed since the war. Domestic prices higher than those on the world market can not be maintained unless wheat production is curtailed to match the domestic demand.

In the meantime Senator Borah wishes to recognize Soviet Russia. That would enable Russia to dump wheat into this country and tear the domestic price to pieces. If he had tried to devise a plan to destroy American agriculture he could not have done better than he has done.

When Mark Twain named the weather as the thing that every one talks most about without getting anywhere he didn't know about the issues before the insurgents' conference.

Now comes to the market an automobile with ten gear shifts, two differentials, five axles and six wheels. Must be patterned after the Progressive political machine.

If you yearn for harmony, just wait for the insurgent conference on March 12!

YOUNGSTERS RULE CHINA

By HERBERT A. MILLER,
In World Unity Magazine.

There is not a single elder statesman in China.

There are two things peculiar about the present government of China—its youth and its foreign education. The president, Chiang Kai Shek, is 42 years old. The oldest member of the cabinet is 48, and the youngest 37. The average age is 43, or twelve years less than that of President Hoover, whom we consider about the right age for a first term. Chiang studied four years in Japan, and every other member of the cabinet studied in the United States. This is undoubtedly the youngest responsible government in the world; it leads the oldest nation and faces most difficult problems. Nowhere else could a case be found where every member of the highest official group was educated abroad. If one government is overthrown it will be succeeded by exactly the same sort of leaders.

The judgment of grandfathers has for the time being been repudiated in China, and Ph. D's. from America, mostly under middle age, are in the saddle. Their theories are perhaps as sound as the world affords, but difficult problems call for experience and judgment which, on the average, middle-age has not attained. This leadership of youth makes stability impossible. It has an energy that age lacks; it can be reckless where age would hesitate; impatient where age is patient; but it can not command the respect that is normally given to age even more in China than elsewhere, and it can not have the judgment which comes only with age.

The numbers from which these new leaders can possibly come is only a few thousands; 30 years will roll by and the numbers will increase rapidly, not only from the 2,000 a year who are now going to America, but from the great number that are getting modern education in China.

The interesting question then will be whether China will turn back to its own cultural heritage, or, having won its way against the aggressions of the West, will embrace all that is Western. My belief is that it will do both. Secure in the knowledge that there is a great past, it can for the time ignore it; the ultimate outcome will unquestionably be a synthesis of the East and the West, Kipling to the contrary notwithstanding.

It is always in the masses that traditions are preserved. The masses in China have not yet been touched by modernism and when they are aroused they will assert their strength clear to the top. Under the old conditions the peasants and the coolies had few contacts with the government except in the collections of taxes. They still have the same, and little more. The radicalism of the students, which often for the moment burns fiercely, will frequently burn out and leave conservatives, but this flame will spread to the masses, keeping alive and accumulating power.

Sun Yat-Sen, who was largely responsible both for the revolution which established the republic and the Nationalist movement, dropped out of the present controversial tangles by dying, but he had formulated certain ideal principles which have been elevated to a national program. One of them is that the masses shall be awakened. Some day this will happen.

The physical and mental vitality of these masses, who number 400,000,000, make a dynamic of incalculable power. In spite of age, there is no physical senility in China. Conditions have never coddled the weak, for bad sanitation at the starvation point has secured the survival only of those who were strong. The social disapproval of childlessness became a religion and this, putting a premium on fecundity, has created one of the most difficult problems of China, but it kept old China from physical deterioration.

The Democratic candidate opposing Big Bill Thompson for mayor of Chicago has discovered that the bootleggers make nearly 1,000 to 1 profit on their invested capital. Will this announcement rouse the people to put them out of business or encourage more to turn bootlegger?

"Light bulb throws piercing beam 5 miles." One bulb and a telescope in the Washington Monument could keep tab on all the parked cars in the District.

HOUSEKEEPING.

There are so many steps to take,
So many tasks to do!
Each day there is the bread to bake,
The beds to make anew,
The floors to sweep, the chairs to dust,
The silverware to shine.
An endless fight with dirt and rust
Appears this life of mine.

The whole day long upstairs and down
With broom and pan I go,
That he who labors in the town
A restful place may know.
These hands which once were soft and white
Are dry and red and thin,
And all those charms have taken flight
Which once he came to win.

Lord, if his house shall lovely be
Then ugly I must grow,
For tidy rooms he smiles to see
My youthful bloom must go!
But sometimes when he casts his eye
Upon my coarsened hands
I wonder if the reason why
He really understands?

Dear Lord, his friends he often brings
To sup with us at night,
He plainly takes great pride in things
Which hold their luster bright.
But often while I dust and sweep,
I wonder does he see
How anxiously I work to keep
His old-time pride in me?

A Head Doesn't Swell Until the Inside Part Stops Growing.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IT is frequently said that the more a man learns the more he is conscious of his ignorance.

The paradox is explained by the fact that learning broadens the horizon.

As a child born in a narrow valley has no conception of the world's vastness until it climbs the surrounding hills and from that vantage discovers unsuspected distances, so the unlearned are incapable of realizing the extent of their misfortune because they have no conception of the vast body of knowledge beyond their ken.

That is the tragedy of ignorance. Man does not make progress until he is spurred by discontent. He does not aspire to a higher state until he becomes ashamed of what he is.

The ignorant man is not content in ignorance. He isn't aware of ignorance. He knows all that lies within his horizon, and he doesn't suspect that anything lies beyond. He thinks his knowledge equal to that of other men.

Thus the conceit of the ignorant is made understandable. They are not, as is commonly supposed, complacently proud of knowing a mere fraction of the great body of truth. They are conceited and content, as any man might well be, because they are aware of knowing all there is to know.

The modesty of a wise and learned man is equally logical. If he possessed all the knowledge within his powers of conception, he doubtless would be proud of his achievement, as the ignorant man is. But since every advance in knowledge reveals to him greater and greater bodies of truth yet to be explored, and the broadening of his vision makes him aware of vast reaches of fact yet to be discovered, he is appalled and humiliated by the comparative insignificance of his little store of learning.

Conceit is the contentment of those who have reached their limit. The affliction called "swellhead" is an evidence that growth has stopped. The climber has reached a certain eminence and is aware of nothing higher.

The degree of your pride in knowledge reveals to the world the degree of your ignornace. The more contented you are, the less you realize how great the sum of knowledge is. To be at all satisfied is to confess that little is required to satisfy you.

It isn't the fact of ignorance that is tragic, but contentment in ignorance.

Alexander didn't conquer the world. He merely quit trying because he was ignorant of the vast continents beyond his horizon.

Cussing the Court.
New York Times.

It is the ancient privilege of lawyers who have failed to win over the judge to their point of view to go down to the tavern and curse the court. Something of this kind of cold consolation seems to be sought by the Progressives in their conference at Washington. In the recent session of Congress they lost out all along the line. Not one of their important measures was made law. Senator Norris, to be sure, finally wearied Congress into passing two of his favorite bills, but one of them expired in a deadlock with the House and the other was killed by a presidential veto. Compared with their hopes and positive announcements last December, the Progressives came out on the 4th of March with their hands conspicuously empty.

* * * * * * *

Each of them has his pet plan. But few of them could be got to agree upon all the plans. Their conference is sure to make this plain before it is over. The better way is just to regard it as a kind of adjourned meeting, after a disappointing session of Congress, in which a lot of speeches that, by some special mercy, did not get into the Congressional Record, may be delivered and printed. Regarded merely as a means of cleansing Progressive bosoms of perilous stuff, the Washington conference has a place and interest of its own.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Senator Norris Flouts Facts of American Political History When He Denounces Partisanship.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I can not altogether agree with Senator Norris in his declaration before the progressive junta that "partisanship is one of the greatest evils of democratic form of government." Especially when the obvious intent of his remarks is considered.

The term "partisanship" may have a good as well as a bad meaning; and it is fair to question the sincerity of those reformers who set forth the nonpartisan idea, inasmuch as no reform can be so automatic that it does not need the help of some kind of party organization. This Government can not function except through political parties. Loyal cooperation inside the party to which a citizen belongs is a virtue. It is his duty to be partisan, and if he can not approve of his party he should get out of it. It is dishonest to claim membership in a party and then to sabotage it.

Politicians who would like to be called statesmen should pay strict attention to their use of words.

Grover Cleveland, who was honest and careful in his use of words, deprecated what he termed "offensive" partisanship. He realized the necessity for party conflict in our governmental system and the value of partisanship, of party spirit, in the well-balanced administration of public affairs.

Senator Norris says: "While parties are perhaps necessary and a limited degree of party spirit is not inimical to good government, yet when the fires of party spirit are kindled and increased beyond reason a conflagration may result and, as indicated in the farewell address of George Washington, consume the very fundamental principles of government which it was intended to warm and keep alive."

He tolerates the doctrinaire's doubt as to whether party spirit, partisanship, is worth while in our politics. Parties are perhaps necessary, he concedes; a sort of Soviet conception.

The leaders who, following the adoption of the Constitution, established the Government on a firm foundation had no such doubt, no such conception. They were fiery partisans, and, being only human, their strife at times was unduly bitter.

It stirs the blood merely to recall their names. Hamilton, Jefferson, Jackson, Clay, Calhoun, Webster, Lincoln, Cleveland and Wilson prided themselves on their loyalty to party. The work they did stands in refutation of the notion that partisanship may be a source of weakness in a representative government. Yet, if the Nebraska senator is right, they were not true patriots.

The truth is that a republic free from political partisanship would be an anomaly. Its absence would mean decadence.

"Parties are organized opinion," said Disraeli. It is disloyalty to party that destroys the influence of such men as Senator Norris.

FEDERALIST.

Molotoff's Bid for Recognition—He Has Not Heard From Real Americans Yet.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The justice, economically and politically, behind the proposed legislation in the last Congress for an embargo upon the products of Soviet Russia is amply shown by the contemptuous remarks of Premier Molotoff as to the findings of a committee of the Congress of the United States, headed by Representative Fish. Molotoff does not deny that his Communist party has sought to undermine the Government of this country; its homes, religions and prosperity. He admits that they tolerate none of the standards we have, especially that of our free labor, whose dignity and loyalty is unquestioned. How cheaply he regards us is illustrated by his threat of trade reprisals, that they would not buy from us if we placed an embargo upon their goods; in other words, we should debase our citizens for the sake of a few tainted dollars. No doubt he is led to believe that this bait will have effect from those so-called Americans with whom he has contact. He has yet to hear from the citizenry, but no doubt he will soon.

They would have us recognize them—but when we asked them to parley rather than war upon China recently they told us to mind our own business. Now, according to reports, they are firmly established there. They have repudiated their debts to this Government and its citizens in the past will in the future as soon as they get their now needed supplies upon another credit indulgence.

L. B. PERKINS.

Majority Against Eighteenth Amendment Would Not Mean Repeal.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is hard to see what would be accomplished by a referendum on the subject of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The drys are divided on the subject of the expediency of it, and many of them would take no part in it, realizing that it would be an idle gesture. The result might show a majority in favor of repeal, but this would by no means bring about repeal. Repeal can only be accomplished by legislative action or convention in 36 States, and it is a good, safe bet that there would be more than thirteen States which would oppose it.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Capital Home Is Ready for U. S. Envoy

Minister Philip and Wife Are Returning From Norway Post.

THE Minister to Norway, Mr. Hoffman Philip, and Mrs. Philip, arrived in New York yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Bremen and presumably will come to Washington immediately. Mr. and Mrs. Philip maintain a home here in the heart of the Capital, having purchased the house at 2228 Massachusetts avenue a short time before Mr. Philip's appointment as envoy to Norway last summer. Before leaving for their northern post the Minister and Mrs. Philip had the house done over to make of it one of the most charming of that neighborhood of attractive homes. Nearby is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jouett Shouse and on the other side is the studio house of Mr. and Mrs. Emmons Smith, a new residence completed last fall.

A Washingtonian, Mr. Philip is a graduate of the George Washington Law School, which at that time was known as the Columbian University Law School. A career man, his post preceding that to Norway was as Minister to Persia, where he served four years, during which period he was the special representative of President Coolidge at the coronation of the Shah of Persia in April, 1926.

Three years previous to that Mr. Philip had acted as special ambassador at the Uruguayan presidential inauguration.

Martinoes to Entertain At Luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills will leave Washington on March 20 for a trip to the West Coast. They will be accompanied by Mrs. Mills' daughter, Miss Dorothy Fell, and Miss Nancy Heckschecker, daughter of Mrs. John M. P. Thatcher, of New York.

Vice Consul William N. Carroll, of London, has been transferred to Birmingham, where he will take up the duties of American vice consul.

The Comptroller General of the United States and Mrs. J. R. McCarl entertained at dinner at the Shoreham Hotel last evening in compliment to Mrs. Charles Laird, of Philadelphia.

The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Walson, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Pilman, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Asher, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bachrach, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Richardson and Mr. Joseph Murphy.

The Attache of the British Embassy and Mrs. Harold H. Sims entertained at dinner last evening in honor of the retiring Counselor of the British Embassy and Lady Broderick, who will leave today for New York preparatory for sailing tomorrow for England. Later Sir John and Lady Broderick will go to Havana, where the former has been appointed minister.

Mr. Roy W. Baker, of the American consulate in London, has been transferred to Bristol, England, as consul. Mrs. Baker and her two children will join him at the beginning of next month.

Washington Portraits Subject of Lecture.

At the residence of Mrs. Gibson Hohnestock, the second lecture of the Colonial Dames of America, Chapter 3, was given yesterday afternon at 4:30 o'clock. Mr. John Hill Morgan, of Philadelphia, spoke on "Life Portraits of Gen. Washington." Mr. Morgan is a noted authority on the subject, and his lecture was illustrated with colorful slides.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, first vice president, in the absence of the president, Mrs. John B. Rutherfoord, because of illness.

Count and Countess Alfonso P. Villa have gone to Newport from their home in New York, and are passing some time at the LaForge, while overseeing alterations being made at Fairholme, their Ochre Point villa, which they will occupy this season.

Count Villa is the brother of Brig. Gen. Augusto Villa, former Military Attache of the Italian Embassy here, who left Washington about a year ago.

Col. and Mrs. Robert Montgomery, of Greenwich, Conn., are at the Shoreham Hotel where they have taken an apartment.

Mrs. Andrew B. Graham has returned to her apartment in the Briarcliff after visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Lieut. and Mrs. Lorimer Graham, at Merion, Pa. Lieut. Graham has recently returned from duty in China with the Asiatic Fleet, and is now stationed at Fort Mifflin, Pa.

Judge and Mrs. James M. Remick entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

Miss Norvell Munford, who has been passing several weeks in Annapolis with her brother-in-law and sister, Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Toutant Beauregard, will go to New York the first of the week to be the guest of Mrs. Grattan Dichman, at her home on Long Island where she will be for some time.

The Minister of Greece and Mme. Simopoulos will leave today for a short stay in New York and Long Island. Pictured with them is their son, John.

Rogers Taking To Work Here In Rapid Way

Has Come From Denver to Help Direct State Department.

From the job of interpreting the law in a Western university to the ever-recurring problems of state in the division of European affairs Mr. James Grafton Rogers is rapidly getting the feel of things at the Department of State, where he was sworn in on Tuesday as Assistant Secretary. The new official was accompanied to Washington by Mrs. Rogers and their 11-year-old son, Hamilton, and they are staying for the present at Wardman Park Hotel. Also in Washington is their daughter, Miss Lorna Rogers, who is at school at Miss Madeira's. Another son, Ranger Rogers, is a student at the University of Colorado at Boulder.

Essentially a club man whose name decorates the registry of Denver's "exclusives," Mr. Rogers doubtless will slip immediately into the round of semiserious activities engaged in by dilettantes and others approaching the professional peaks in art and literature. For Mr. Rogers has delved widely into the realm of writing and has turned out delightful sketches and plays, including "The Fire of Romance" and "The Goldenrod Lode." He formerly was a reporter on the New York Sun.

As dean of the department of law of the University of Colorado, as assistant attorney general for the State, president of the Colorado Geographic Board and member of all sorts of progressive groups "out West," Mr. Rogers' claim to democratic views coincides well with the general scheme of life in the gay and metropolitan center which is Denver. As successor to Mr. Nelson T. Johnson, who went out to China as United States Minister more than a year ago, the new Assistant Secretary gives promise of "fitting in" admirably. Furthermore, there is the charming Mrs. Rogers, who is no novice at facing the limelight of the public eye. Her father is a former Governor of Colorado and always a man of parts in his State.

Later on Mr. and Mrs. Rogers probably will take a house and at the close of the college year will welcome their son from the West.

The Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Ferrara will entertain at dinner this evening in honor of the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth.

Senora de Ferrara will not receive this afternoon.

Kotex fits inconspicuously and it is soft, comfortable, disposable

KOTEX keeps you free of self-consciousness at times when sanitary protection is necessary. It is skilfully shaped to fit securely. It absorbs five times more than surgical cotton—absorbs away from the surface, not in one concentrated area. This method of lateral absorption leaves your protection dry and comfortable far longer than the ordinary pad.

It may be worn on either side with equal protection. There is no chance of getting it adjusted wrong—no possibility of embarrassment.

Kotex has not merely an apparent softness, but a lasting softness. It is treated to deodorize effectively. Hospitals use quantities of Kotex and also the soft absorbent material of which it is made. Kotex is disposable, as you know, quickly, easily—first of all its advantages over old-time methods.

BECAUSE milk is so good for children, many have the notion that it is just "a kid's food." Nothing could be further from the truth.

Recent medical discoveries by foremost nutritionists have established the fact that milk is perhaps the finest food that an adult can have.

They have learned that milk is Nature's most complete food—containing 34 of the 36 food-elements which we need to keep healthy. Proteins to build and repair tissue. The right fat for fuel. Sugar for energy. Vitamins. Mineral salts.

Continued lack of any of these essentials often forms the starting point for many middle-age diseases. Milk brings balance to our meals by supplying the things that so many diets lack. It promotes a clear mind in a healthy body.

Plenty of pure milk with your meal is one of the safest health-habits you can form. Enjoy the best. Order Chestnut Farms Milk—famous for its purity and rich flavor. Straight from the World's Model Dairy Plant. Courteous, dependable service assured. Phone: Potomac 4000.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

A Penitent Husband.

DEAR Miss McDonald: Many a time I have sat of an evening and read your column and tried to picture the people. Many time I have asked my husband what he would do if I ever wrote to the newspaper about him. And he would laugh. Well no one knows what they would do till the time comes. Then they do the best they can. He is with his folks now and I am sitting in the house that can never be home to us again. I would feel differently if we were the fighting, warring kind. But he admits he has no excuse. He was never nagged. Never questioned. His friends were royally treated and he loved friends about all the time. I was not so socially inclined but baked and fussed and had any one he liked. And we were perfectly happy for six-teen years. That is what I can not forget. Also that he lied and deceived me for months and admitted nothing till he had to.

It began last summer when I took my first vacation away from him to visit my folks, who are getting very old and wanted to see me. He urged the trip, provided funds in princely manner. I went alone, leaving the boy at home to keep his father com-pany. They stayed with my mother-in-law. When I returned in Septem-ber his mother told me he was doing right work for the company and I was surprised. He said it was only temporary as they were retrenching in some departments. I never ques-tioned a thing he ever told me and did not then. And after supper—the very first night he had seen me in three months he took his hat and to car and went "to the office." I had unpacking to do or would have the worse about it. But when it came 9:30 I called the office. I got no answer. He came in about half hour later—so I figured he had just left when I called. And suspicion never entered my head again. So he had it all for months and then a young fellow appeared one day white as a sheet and shaking like a leaf. He said his wife had gone away with my hus-band. I thought he was demented. Then he told me how he had begged me for months and that when he came home from work she was gone. I got my mother-in-law on the phone and she came right over? She said she expected for a long time. She called the office and my husband was right there. She told him to come straight home. The fellow left when he found they were not together and went to look for her. My husband's explana-tion was that he had broken with her and that was why she went away. I told his mother to take him home, as I never wanted to see his face again. He never denied a thing to his mother or me, just brazened it right out. Said it was "over; why talk about it now?"

That was December. Now he would like to return home. The boy is here and he supports us as always. But I never see him and never care to.

He has written to me several times on the subject. Thus far I have ignored the letters. I am per-fectly content to go on as we are. I feel as if I had been knocked down and stamped on, but I do not wish to have him back. Will I regret my present attitude? And is it fair to the boy? He misses his father. Will he later blame me for their estrange-ment? Or am I justified in any stand I feel like taking under the circumstances? Of course, he assures me he was just lost during my ab-sence and the girl started it, and there never was any question of his caring for her at all. And he out to meet her the very first night I was home from my trip! His talk all goes in one ear and out the other. I was easy to fool once, but never again. However, I naturally worry over the future and would welcome an unbiased opinion on our situa-tion. WIFE.

Well, as far as your being justi-fied in any stand you might take, there is no question but that you are justified even in the eyes of the law. And your husband is the one who is responsible for the separation from his son, and not you. So even the boy can never justly reproach you on that score.

But, after all, there are higher laws than the divorce laws. And they must often be called upon to encompass the vagaries of human conduct. In your situation I would not overlook those laws.

You have very sagely remarked that "no one knows what she would do until the time comes." But con-sidering the boy, and sixteen years of fidelity, and a few other things, I honestly believe in your place I would think of the laws higher than the divorce laws, and take my hus-band home. Life is such a motley experience, so crowded with agony and error. When mercy is possible, is it not best?

What Today Means to You

"PISCES."

IF March 13 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 9:45 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger hours are from 9 a. m. to 10:30 a. m. and from 6:15 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.

The planetary aspects of March 13 point to a day of opportunity and advancement, and all that is needed is courage to "wade in" and win. In the evening pessimism will prevail, and relief should be sought in some form of light recreation.

A child born on this March 13 will possess, both in childhood and ma-turity, the qualities of a leader. It will have a retentive memory and learn readily. In adulthood its de-veloped nature will demand strong love. It will not be averse to flattery.

If your birthday falls on March 13 you are emotional, dramatic and al-ways interesting. You are witty and have a pretty humor. You always shine in the social circle in which your move and are a popular figure in it. You are a great lover of music, and the stars denote that you should have a good singing voice. No suc-cess in life will be vouchsafed you if you are pitchforked into a job that makes no appeal to your nature. You should always strive to follow your natural bent. If you do not, you will become a nuisance to those around you, by continually "kicking against the pricks." Just as soon as you find out in what you are most competent, and what you would most like to do, go to it and stick to it through thick and thin. Apparent failure may dog your footsteps for a while, but persistence will win out in the long run.

You are intensely curious, not only about events, but about persons. Your insatiable desire to gratify your curiosity often impels you to over-step the bounds of natural courtesy. You are intuitive, and it is fairly safe for you to follow your inner prompt-ings. You are rather apt to indulge in gossip and unless this habit is curbed, it will grow upon you to your own discomfiture, and to the annoy-ance of your friends.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

HARDY FERNS FOR SHADY STRETCHES.

ABOUT July each year I receive many inquiries regarding the best varieties of plants for shady stretches where even grass re-fuses to live. So I think that at this time, when people are beginning to get out into the open and dig, it might be well to offer some practical suggestions. For if you wait to find out by experience the plants which refuse to live except in sunshine it is usually too late to set out other va-rieties that will thrive in the shady nooks.

Blooming plants, of all varieties must have sun during the summer months. They positively will not produce flowers without it. There-fore, it is only a waste of labor and perhaps money to plant them under trees or in the narrow spaces be-tween two buildings, which are al-ways in shadow. This is also true of grass, certain varieties may live but even they refuse to grow abundantly.

There is one class of plants, how-ever, that revels in just such loca-tions, the hardy ferns. They will not only grow in partial, but in dense shade. So if you wish to enliven a dark corner in your garden, try a few ferns.

These lovely plants, after their long winter's rest, begin to resume activity in early April. If you already have a colony of ferns, examine their crowns at this time and you will find that they are beginning to swell. This swelling indicates that this is the proper time to begin dividing, trans-planting and rearranging your fern-ery, if you feel that such work is necessary. If you do this work now you will not injure the young fronds of the plants or in any way check or injure their new growth.

Remember that the ferns are just waking up from a long winter's nap and have such a wealth of energy stored up in their roots that a vig-orous, rapid growth is assured. They will get the benefit of the showery weather and the dewy mornings and evenings usually experienced at this time of year, while if you postpone planting until after the leaves have started to grow and the first fronds are half developed, they will lose these advantages and have to battle against warmer days and drier weather.

Should you already have hardy ferns, upon examination of their crowns you find that those which last year had only one crown now have three. Such specimens should be lifted early leaving only one strong crown. If this is not done you will have only indifferent plants; but if you divide them, removing the young plants to some other place, you will have large, splendid specimens and also a thrifty bed of young ones.

IT'S NEARLY TIME

To spray your rose bushes, as a preventive of mildew and black spot. Doing this before the leaves appear gives them just that much better start, and then you can do it again at intervals later. And, won't you be glad you did, when the roses come?

If you would like to have the leaflet giving directions for mak-ing this spray write, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to

Dare Interprets the Mode

Plain and stitched georgette make a lovely summer dress for afternoon or evening. (A Dah-ray design.)

Paris, March 12.

JEWELRY for trimming is not a new idea, to be sure, but the way it is employed this season is slightly new and very charming, at times. Be careful yourself if you have a this or that to sew on to a dress, that the whole dress leads up to that particular this or that. For whole frocks are cut nowadays for the express purpose of glorifying a cer-tain little tricky trimming, and this is the only way that such a trim-ming could be used.

I've already told you of the ter-ribly smart woolen dress which closed just at the base of the neck with an odd necklace in choker effect, re-member? Well, there is the belt of black jet which closes with a deep coral buckle, whilst the decolletage of the dress is outlined in the same jet and the dress was of black tulle.

And then there are the evening ensembles with the little jeweled belt at the edge of the matching jacket. If you wear your dress without a jacket, it has no belt you see, but when you put the jacket on it's held in place with this belt around the waist. You wear the dress this way when you don't want to be as for-mally dressed, you see.

Then there are the organdie col-lars which you can wear on a dress or not as you please, and which at-tach to the dress on a necklace. It doesn't matter in this case where the decolletage of the dress ends, be-cause you put your collar on just as though it were a necklace, with the collar part quite unimportant and secondary, even though it actually is very important.

• • • •

Did you ever think that you could be the proud possessor of the very smartest tunic dress for the simple effort of sending a stamped self-ad-dressed envelope to the Dare Depart-ment of The Washington Post? Of course there is the mere trifle of making this after you have received the carefully illustrated leaflet, but that will go very quickly if you fol-low instructions step by step.

And if you don't know how im-portant a tunic dress is in your life just make this one and see! Because the tunic itself is smartly cut and flattering to the figure, unlike the tunics of yore, and there are several different collar and skirt effects that you can wear with it, which make it a different outfit each time. Bet-ter send for that leaflet.

• • • •

Pale blue georgette heavily stitched in a matching blue silk braid, that's the idea I had when I designed a summer dress for you today. I admit that it would be difficult to make, but one can't care about that when it's so lovely, and then, besides, it really could be made and has been made, what's more. Just in case you might want to have it made I'll tell you that the skirt has to be cut exactly as it's shown in the drawing, sewn down to just below the hips, and then allowed to flare from there in petal like effect.

• • • •

And then there is the Rose Vallois hat which, believe it or not, is ex-actly as I have drawn it for you. The crown is of green velvet very, very closely molded to the head, and the brim is of two thicknesses of black horsehair cut and draped in what you might think at first sight to be rah-ther fantastic, but which is, in reality, the smartest and most be-coming thing—for the right person.

• • • •

You'll be interested in Dare's week-ly fashion letter. You can find it in the Capital only in the big Sunday Post.

Au revoir.

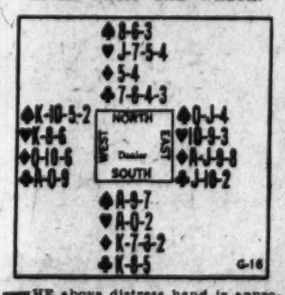
WORK ON BRIDGE

SAVED FROM THE WRECK.



THE above distress hand is appro-priate to this day and date. Played at Contract Bridge, South bid one No Trump on his count of 16 with four suits stopped and no possible suit-bid. West properly dou-bled with a count of 15 which is con-ceded to be sufficient to justify an informatory double, with West's al-most ideal distribution for that declaration. North passed; and East, with a count of 10, strong interme-dates and a partner able to double, felt sure that South, who was vulner-able, could be severely penalized.

So East passed and South knew that he was the cheese in the sandwich. He had a No Trump hand on each side of him and was "in for a trim-ming;" but he had no suit to bid and his only hope of rescue was to force a bid from North by an S O S re-double. Having three 3-card suits and a 4-carder, he would have at least three cards for any suit his partner named. He knew that North had no strength, but he must have a four-card suit and might have a five-carder. The S O S redouble is very dangerous when the redoubler has a two-card suit, as partner may have to bid a weak four-card suit and the combined hands thus contain only six trumps as against the adverse seven. In that case the S O S usually turns out to be a flop from the frying pan into the fire.

West passed the S O S and North bid two Hearts, East and South passed, putting it up to West whether to double or bid. West was afraid to double with so weak a Heart suit, so he bid two No Trumps over which East called three.

North opened with the Four of Hearts, South played the Queen and West the King (a hold-up would have made game, but the danger was that North had the Ace, South having a light No Trump). West then led a Spade, and South won and ran three Hearts, making a total of four tricks for his side. After that Declarer took three Spades, three Clubs and one Diamond; but the Diamond finesse failed and the contract was defeated.

Had South played at one No Trump doubled, West would have opened Spades, establishing that suit. Then Declarer could have made two Heart tricks, West winning the third; but all Declarer could take after that would be one Diamond and he would have been set three tricks (1,000 points). Therefore the S O S was a life-saver. If North's two Hearts had been doubled, North and South would have been set.

YOUR NAME
What Does It Mean?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph.D.

THE family name "Armstrong" is one of the relatively few names whose original meanings are clearly indicated by their present forms. It was originally given as a nickname to persons who had proved the strength of their arms in battle or by some unusual deed. It appears to be first recorded with the spelling "Armestrange" in an English docu-ment of the last part of the thir-teenth century. There is evidence that this name originated near the Scottish border.

The family name "Kerr" (also spelled "Ker") has come down to us from three main sources. Northern English and Scottish families which bear this name may trace it back to the old Norse "kiarr," which means "the marsh." In such cases the name indicates an original place of resi-dence. In Ulster "Kerr" generally stands for the original Irish "O Carra," which means "the descendant of Carra." "Carra" was an old personal name meaning "the spear." Another Celtic source of this name is the Irish and Gaelic "cathair," the full significance of which is "he who lives at or near the fortress." An English document of the year 1379 mentions a certain Henricus del Kerre and a Johannes del Kerre.

The family name "Hauser" is of German origin. It is frequently de-rived from "Balthasar." "Balthasar" is of Babylonian origin, and may be translated "life protection" or "life protector." In other cases "Hauser" has the more obvious meaning of "he who lives in the house" (as dis-tinguished from those who lived in huts or cottages). In the United States and Canada this name is fre-quently spelled "Houser."

Dr. Pierce's Clinic

DR. R. V. PIERCE met with such unusual success in his private practice that he was frequently called in consultation in desperate cases. This caused him to gather around him a number of eminent specialists and surgeons and to establish a Clinic and Hospital. Today this Clinic is of the same high caliber as ever. The physicians still find that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best tonic for patients who are run down and need their digestion improved and their blood enriched.

Many have thin, pale blood—they are weak, feel tired, logy and dull. This herbal tonic put up by Doctor Pierce increases the appetite, elimi-nates poisons from the intestines, stimulates the digestion, enriches the blood, clears the skin of eruptions and blemishes, and you gain in vim, vigor and vitality.

All druggists carry Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in both fluid and tablet form.

Write to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., if you want free medical ad-vice, using the symptom blank wrapped with each bottle of "GMD." On receipt of ten cents, Dr. Pierce will send you an acquaintance package of

$3,260,271 PROFITS OF ICE FIRM LISTED

Net Figure for 1930 Equals $3.93 on Each Share; Sales Compared.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

American Ice Co. and subsidiaries for the year ended December 31, 1930, reports net profits, after all charges, of 3,260,271, equal to $3.93 on the common stock as compared with $3,431,124, or $4.22 per share, in 1929.

The annual report of this company with local interests made public yesterday states that sales amounted to $20,595,707, compared with $20,804,078 the year previous. The consolidated balance sheet shows current assets of $2,976,176 and current liabilities of $2,975,426. Charge-off for depreciation and maintenance was $2,475,254. Bonded debt was decreased $156,000 to $5,846,000, and surplus increased $394,901 to $7,767,871.

In his letter to stockholders President Charles C. Small states that sales of ice during 1930 were largest in dollars and tonnage in the company's history, but that, owing to the warm winter of 1929-30 fuel sales were less favorable. Two new manufacturing plants in the company's Boston territory were acquired, but were brought into production too late in the year to increase earnings materially.

Building and Reconstruction.

A program of new building and reconstruction amounting to $2,000,000 was completed. These items, together with an increase in holdings of 13,500 shares of the company's own common shares, accounted for extraordinary expenditures during the year in excess of $3,500,000, which was handled without recourse to new financing.

An upward turn of local business is revealed by a survey of the Bureau of Business Conditions of Alexander Hamilton Institute made public yesterday. Trade volume, it states, is still 7.2 per cent below the period a year ago.

The monthly report of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond released for publication yesterday shows that local department store sales for February averaged 2.4 per cent under the month last year. For the two months of 1931, however, they are only .5 per cent less than the 1930 period.

Invitations Are Issued.

The officers and directors of the American Building Association, organized in 1874, have issued invitations to an inspection of their handsome new office building at 300 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, on March 16, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., and March 17, from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY.

MR. S. E. COCHRAN, manager of the National Theater, is spending the week in New York. It happens that his house, with a moving picture attraction, "Trader Horn," doesn't have to be supermanaged. So Mr. Cochran is spending his spare time casting players for the spring and summer stock season which opens on Easter Monday.

* * * *

The Belasco Theater dark this week, Mr. Stoddard Taylor, the manager, is centering his attention on the new Pinero play, "Dr. Harmer," which opens next Monday night. Philip Merivale, who was last seen here in "Death Takes a Holiday," is cast as the central character in Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's latest contribution to the stage.

* * * *

Although some of the New York dramatic reviewers took heavy flings at George C. Tyler's revival of J. M. Barrie's play, "The Honorable Crichton," this worthy effort is meeting with success at the New Amsterdam Theater, one of the largest in New York. Walter Hampden is playing the title role and Fay Bainter is playing opposite him.

* * * *

Clifford Brooke, who is coming to Washington soon as director of the National Theater Players, is busy at present directing a new play in New York—with Alice Brady as the star. On the side, he is thinking of a revival of "Zaza," a play that this city saw some 30 years ago. After all this effort, Mr. Brooke will take a train for Washington, to star Leneta Lane in "Gay Paree," the opening number of the Players.

* * * *

Mr. Morris Gest, the well-known producer, who brought "The Wonder Bar" to Washington last week—for a four-day engagement—is having a time for himself remodeling the Nora Bayes Theater in New York. The idea is to turn the playhouse into a cabaret, as was done at the Belasco in a small way. In New York, of course, the illusion will be carried into the grand scale—so that playgoers entering the place will never know they are in a theater. In order to do this properly, the opening night schedule is $25 a seat—something unknown in Washington.

* * * *

Here is a real piece of news. The first play to open at the National Theater next season—which means September—will be Myron C. Fagan's comedy, "Philip Flies High." Mr. Fagan, it may be remembered, is the author of "The Little Spitfire," and "Nancy's Private Affair"—both successes on the New York stage.

* * * *

"Trader Horn," the film show at the National, will carry on for a second week. There are two reasons: First, the film is a popular success—one of the finest that ever played Washington—and, second, there is no road show booked in the National for Sunday or Monday night.

* * * *

Mr. Robert Sisk, high powered publicity agent for The New York Theater Guild, rushes in with the announcement that Lynn Fontanne, playing in "Elizabeth the Queen," is the hit of Boston. "When she gets to Washington, the week of March 23," he announces, "there will be standing room only for those who do not subscribe for the Guild." It may be so.

REBUILD YOUR STRENGTH

the new strength that comes with taking S.S.S.

. . . particularly is this IMPORTANT in the spring, after colds, flu and sickness

MANY are weakened by the epidemics of colds and flu in winter and the body therefore has less resistance against further disease attacks.

When your vitality is low—you feel weak—have lost your appetite, the chances are that cold or the flu or some other sickness has destroyed many of your red-blood-cells and your body has not the strength to properly assimilate and use the food you eat.

When your red-blood-cells are reduced to 80% you are not yourself. 60% is dangerous. Your body may be demanding more red-blood-cells. You need these health-building and health-sustaining cells to build and repair tissue and give you strength.

S.S.S. is famed for its ability to increase the red-blood-cells. This is why for over 100 years it has been popular for toning up the system—especially in the spring. And being purely vegetable, S.S.S. has no harmful effects upon the system.

Every spring countless thousands take S.S.S. to build back their red-blood-cells so that they may have that new strength which makes for a keen appetite, firm flesh, a clear skin and greater resistance against infection and disease. You, too, will want to take S.S.S. for this very reason. Select the larger size as it holds double the quantity and represents a price-saving.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

MACHINE MADE FEVER AGAIN.

DR. C. A. NEYMANN has been making use of diathermy induced fever in the treatment of general paresis and some other disorders. More than one-half the persons so treated have been greatly improved. Those reported on were in institutions for the insane. A considerable proportion of them were able to go back to their homes and take up their work uncontrolled and fit in satisfactorily both in the home and in the place of employment. Some required some supervision and control in order to get on well among their fellow employes and with their families. Some were not improved.

If the treatment did no good, it did no great harm. None died from it, nor any earlier after treatment than they would otherwise have done. A few had albuminuria for a few days, but it passed shortly. A few had burns, but they healed nicely. Advanced cases of dementia paralytica were not improved, but neither were they made worse except for the temporary discomfort of the fever.

Diathermy is a method of sending a very strong and rapidly reversed electric current through a body—in this case the human body. The current meets with resistance in the body and this causes the resisting body to become hot, as one sees in a rheostat. In the case of an animal body the heated tissues heat the blood which circulates through them, and thus is produced the condition known as fever.

A generation ago an Austrian physician advocated artificially induced fever as a treatment for paralytic dementia or general paresis. He based his recommendations on some observations that when cases of this disorder were attacked by typhoid, malaria or other fevers they improved. The method of fever making he made use of was an injection of malaria. Artificially induced malarial fever as a means of treating some diseases has been given an extensive trial and has proved valuable. Similarly, sodoku, or rat bite fever, has been used. Also fever caused by injections of milk and some other substances. Fever caused by hot baths and by radio waves are used for the same purpose.

Dr. Neyman advocates diathermy fever. He wraps the patient well and sends a powerful diathermy current through his body for about an hour. This brings on a fever of around 105, and which has been known to go over 108. As the fever approaches the proper level the current is switched off. The fever lasts about six hours. The principal precaution is to prevent burns and this consists in using proper electrodes properly applied.

MALE FERN FOR TAPEWORM.

M. B. writes: How can I get rid of tapeworm?

REPLY.

The best tapeworm remedy is male fern. Pomeganate is good. So much depends on proper preparation for the treatment and proper follow-up, and the margin of safety is so narrow, that you had better have a physician direct your treatment.

NATS' LOOSE PLAY ENABLES ORIOLES TO WIN, 7-6

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, March 12.—A night at the Golden Gloves boxing shows is good medicine, especially in the earlier rounds when the more gangling types of kids are fighting, if only for the reason that it is likely to cure or temporarily relieve most males of the popular delusion that they are great, born fist-fighters themselves.

In the earlier rounds the lists are pretty well crowded with amateur boys who have won a few defaults or one-punch fights in the schoolyards or on the street corners, and have done a little boxing in some boys' club connected with some church or lodge, such as the Moose or the K. of C. Emboldened by this experience, they decide to take in more territory, and presently they find themselves up in the ring in the presence of strangers, fighting other young men whom they probably have not had the pleasure of meeting socially.

Jack Dempsey, or somebody, has said that once the bell rings for a fight, the ring is the loneliest place in the world. There is another guy in there, and either you lick him or he licks you, and there is no chance to say, "Well, now, you look like a nice, reasonable fellow, so why don't we just sit down and talk this thing out to a friendly adjustment without resort to blows? Or why don't you sue me?"

By the time the tournament has reached the semifinal stage the boxing is uniformly pretty good and the boys who lose their heads and run off into corners with their gloves clasped over their ears have been turned back for one more year, anyway. But good boxers and punchers can't teach the deluded layman anything. On the contrary, they tend to confirm his delusions, and one sees large, fat customers or narrow wisps of customers sitting at the ringside, punching and weaving in transports of vicarious conquest as the master fighters do their work. When a hard punch lands, the tendency is to reflect, "Well, I certainly nailed him a pip that time," not "Ow!. That one damn near tore my head off."

Fan Never Hurt By Punch

But in the first stages of the tournaments very often there will be a couple of boys in the ring who can stir the sedentary and absentee gladiator to no other thought than a rueful realization that, for heaven's sake, he probably would look like that, if not more so, himself. It is not only good for the vanity, but for the prudence, and possibly for the health it is a very good thing to be reminded every so often that the art and knack of fist-fighting are not the natural endowment of all American males, but an acquired talent like that of the uke-banjo.

Very often reputations are earned by bloodless conquest. I remember a young man about 12 who had the reputation of being the toughest kid of his age in school, it being understood, of course, that young men of that age grade themselves for fighting purposes according to their years, not their weight. This young man hauled off and gave another young man an unprovoked push and a third youth, who had just arrived at the school and was as yet an unknown quantity, said, "If you did that to me I would knock you down."

"Well, I didn't do it to you, did I?" the first man said, and though no blows were struck, the championship passed to the young stranger through a conquest no less real than the hardest bloody-nose fight in the history of the school. Primo Carnera's reputation, if any, was founded upon a series of victories scarcely more substantial, and the first time he met a fellow who knew enough about fighting to turn his thumbs out, instead of in, he was licked.

Wins Title Without a Blow

Undoubtedly, most males in this country have an instinct for fist-fighting, but, without practice and development by experience, the in-

Marine 145-Pounders Bow to Colonials in Post's Event.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.

Colonials, 43; Quantico Marines, 40 (first round).
(130-Pound Class.)

UP from Quantico, Va., with a team of comparative giants, the United States Marines made their debut in the District of Columbia A. A. U. basket ball championships last night at Tech High School with a smashing 45-24 victory over Fort Washington that bore unmistakable evidence of a serious threat t ogther title aspirants in the unlimited class of the tournament which The Washington Post is sponsoring for the fifth consecutive year.

Taking the floor a few minutes after the 145-pound team from Quantico had been eliminated from the tourney by the Colonials, of Washington, by a 43-40 score, the big Marines lost little time in bringing their marksmanship into play.

Led by R. Resio, the biggest basketer in the tournament, a veritable demon under the basket, the Marines made short shrift of the soldiers from Fort Washington to enter the second round of the unlimited division.

Entering the second round in the unlimited class in company with the Marines was the First Baptist Church Team, which found a victim in the Bolling Field Aviators by the score of 36-33 in the concluding game of the night's program.

Ushering in the night's activities was a 130-pound-class contest in which the defending champions, the St. John's victors, who have competed in every Post tournament since 1925, barely eked out a 19-17 victory over the Arcadians, champions of the 115-pound division last year.

Marine Unlimiteds Take Early Lead.

The Marine Unlimiteds, impressive from the moment they took the floor, scored easily over the doughboys from Fort Washington by a 45-to-24 score.

Led by R. Resio, giant center, whose physical measurements qualify him for the title of the "A. A. U. Horse Haggerty," the big team from Quantico ran up a 13-3 lead in the first five minutes and never was pressed, although Fort Washington played a much better game in the second half than in the first.

Resio established an individual scoring record for the current tournament by sinking eleven field goals and two fouls for a total of 24 points. Using his 6 feet 3 and 220 pounds of muscle to good advantage, he was nigh unstoppable in the region of the goal. At the half the Marines were ahead, 22 to 7. March, who scored 14 points, was prominent in Fort Washington's second-half drive.

With this result recorded, tournament fans began discussing the next game for the Marines in which they encounter the strong Boys Club five.

Colonials Stave Off Marines' Rally.

The Colonial 145-pounders, with three George Washington University athletes in their line-up, experienced a scare in passing their first round test as they turned back the Quantico Marine lightweights by a score of 43 to 40.

What looked like a rout for one half developed into a pulsating battle, with the Colonials yielding before a Marine onslaught of baskets in the waning moments. Beginning the second half on the short end of a 21-10 count, the Marines' long passing attack started functioning, and with Boyer, substitute guard, virtually pouring the ball through the hoop, cut down their foes' advantage in hair-raising style.

Alterson, another Marine substitute, entered the fray to aid Boyer in this devastating drive, but within three minutes of the close the Colonials managed to clamp on the brakes.

Jeweler, Farhood and Castell, of George Washington University, appeared in the Colonial line-up, while Bob Leverton, of Strayer College, performed also for the winners in the best individual exhibition for his team.

Three Foul Shots Win For St. John's.

St. John's, defending 130-pound class champions, hurdled their first barrier, the Arcadians, by capturing the decision in a thrilling game, 19 to 17. The defeated team last year won the 115-pound title.

It was a notable triumph for the Saints, who came back in the final quarter in a courageous rally to overcome a 6-point lead and score 10 tallies, while holding their rivals to 2.

The Arcadians appeared the winners shortly after the second half opened when their offense yielded them an advantage of 15 to 9. The first two quarters had been closely contested, with each team showing excellent guarding form.

St. John's took the lead at 16-15 early in the fourth period, lost it briefly when the Arcadians holed a fielder, and then sank three foul shots to pull out the victory.

G. U. Prep Declines 3d Contest With St. John's

Offering the reason that the season was closed, and that enough strain had been placed on the boys, Georgetown Prep yesterday declined to meet St. John's on the basket ball floor for what would have been the third game between the two rivals.

St. John's was victorious in the first game, 35 to 17, but the Garrett Parkmen turned the tables last week, after St. John's had unofficially won the prep school championship in a defeat of Gonzaga, by beating the Saints, 21-17.

Heavy Card Occupies Athletes of St. John's

Matters athletic are humming at St. John's. The track and field performers were out yesterday afternoon tuning up for future outdoor competition.

St. John's looks to its high jumpers this year as its most consistent point winners. They are Mattingly, Spates and John McDonald. In the dashes the Saints will rely on Cyral McDonald, O'Hanlon, Liston, Mahoney, Donny and "Young Mike" Lynch, son of the veteran distance runner. Lynch, besides being a sprinter, is the long-distance man in the school.

Grid practice starts Monday. At a meeting yesterday Mike Scanlon, half back, was named captain of the 1931 team. Elimination tests for the remaining positions on the Saints' fennis team will be held Sunday. Bob Smith and Henry Buchanan already have been named.

Junior Net Tourney Draws Hilltop Trio

Three Georgetown University netmen, Bert Ferguson, Lester Burdett and P. V. Burns, will participate in the Junior Indoor Tennis Tournament which gets under way Monday in Baltimore.

The entry of the Hilltoppers gives Washington a quartet of players in the test, Gilbert Hunt, Eastern High School captain, having sent in his entry a week ago.

CONTRARY to popular notion, the 7,000 convicts in France's great penal colony off the coast of French Guiana are not imprisoned on Devil's Island. On the real Devil's Island there are but nine men, and three of them are aviators. There are three islands in the penal group, St. Joseph, on which the prison hospital and administration buildings are located; Isle Royal, on which some of the incorrigibles are imprisoned, and tiny Devil's Island. At Cayenne, which is on the mainland 27 miles southeast of the penal colony, a great number of the convicts are imprisoned.

Besides being without a tail, the peccary pig differs from our porkers in that it has coarse, bristly hair, which forms almost a mane at the neck. In Ecuador the peccary is highly esteemed for its savory meat. However, while the porker is being fattened, the natives find that the tailless piggies make excellent watchdogs.

W.-L. BOASTS CHAMPION HURDLERS

Speer, Finklestein Win All 1st Places in Two Years.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 12 (A.P.).—Two years of competition has proved the best indoor hurdlers in Dixie come from Washington and Lee and their names are Speer and Finkelstein.

In both th first and second Southern Conference indoor track and field championships, these loose-limbed skinners from Lexington, Va., have won the hurdle events at the Chapel Hill meet.

In 1930, the distance was 60 yards. This season it was moved up to 70 yards. Both years found Speer ahead in the highs and Finkelstein first in the lows. This year Speer also was second in the lows, while Finkelstein came third in the highs.

Washington and Lee did not participate in the outdoor championships at Birmingham in 1930, but if the Generals send a team this season, the hurdle races promise to be among the most interesting.

Ga., Tarheel Hurdlers Trail Generals.

Maddox, of Georgia, who was second in the 120-high hurdles in the outdoor meet, trailed Speer to the tape in the shorter indoor distance last week at the indoor titular affair. Slusser, of North Carolina, second in the outdoor 220-yard low hurdles, came third in the 70-yard low hurdles of the indoor meet.

In McGinn North Carolina State has a half-miler who has won both the indoor and outdoor crowns in the past season. Neither, however, was a record mark.

College Park Matmen Defeat J. C. C., 3 to 1

Capturing three out of the four bouts on decisions, the College Park A. C. wrestling team defeated the Jewish Community Center grapplers last night at Ritchie Gym.

Jack Kassan was the only visiting wrestler to win, throwing Ted Brown to the mat with a half-nelson and waist lock. Tom Clayton of the College Park Club, rested exhibition bouts with G. Tobey and Harry Goldman, of the Washington team. The results:

115-pound class—Phil Hartman (C. P.) defeated Herb Isko (J. C. C.), on decision.
125-pound class—Harold Huslin (C. P.) defeated Harry Shenk (J. C. C.), on decision.

RUEL IS HURT IN OPENING CONTEST

Split Finger to Keep Red Sox Backstop Out for Month.

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 12 (U.P.).—The Boston Red Sox lost the services of Muddy Ruel today when the veteran catcher suffered a split finger in the opening exhibition game of the season against Spring Hill College, of Mobile. The accident occurred in the ninth inning and will keep Ruel out of action for a month.

The collegians presented little opposition and were defeated, 4 to 1. Three rookie pitchers held the visitors to four hits, three of them made by Mike Bellande, who will go to Cleveland in June.

Raw Rookie Hurler Shines for Macks.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 12 (A.P.).—Most of the Athletics' regulars, except the battery, teamed up today to beat the Yannigans, 9 to 5. The youngsters outhit the champions, 11-7, but loose fielding let in several runs. The winning pitcher, Bill Parks, was practically an unknown. He is the property of Indianapolis and came here asking for a trial. In four innings he yielded the Yannigans seven hits and all their runs.

Jenkins Stars at Bat, Afield, for Browns.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 12 (U.P.).—Tom Jenkins, outfielder from Milwaukee, who came down to play right field for the St. Louis Browns, was the big hero of a practice game today, belting out a triple and a single to drive in three runs and win for the second team, 6-5. Besides his work at the plate, Jenkins ran far over the right field foul line and down a small embankment to capture a long foul.

Fonseca Promises To Play at First.

New Orleans, March 12 (A.P.).—The batting eye that made Lew Fonseca the leading hitter of the American League two years ago, plus the best condition he has attained in years, have just about made certain that the veteran will start at first base for the Cleveland Indians April 14, even if Eddie Morgan finally deserts business for baseball. Lew smacked three balls over the left field fence and added a score of line drives to the far corners in batting practice today.

Lazzeri Seen Choice At Second Base.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12 (A. P.).—It begins to appear as if the New York Yankees will start the season with Tony Lazzeri at his old spot at second base and Joe Sewell, former Cleveland veteran, at third. Joe McCarthy had them lined up this way today with Ben Chapman, who has

MacFarlane's Brilliance Conquers Sarazen-Farrell

Scores 30 on First 9 to Win Play-Off With Cox.

MIAMI, Fla., March 12 (A.P.).—Willie Macfarlane, single-handed, won the championship of the classic international four-ball matches here today.

He was teamed with Wiffy Cox, but Macfarlane and his charmed putter won the match, an 18-hole playoff of the deadlocked 40-hole final round, from Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, 3 and 2.

Macfarlane and Cox won $750 each as first prize money. Sarazen and Farrell took $500 each as runners-up. Each of the playoff teams also took approximately $750 as their share of the playoff gate from a crowd of 2,500 that followed the match under a blistering sun. The battle yesterday ended as darkness fell over the course.

The wily Willie took command of the situation to burn up the Miami Country Club course with 30 for the first nine holes, 6 under par. Sarazen and Farrell dropped behind hole by

WILLIE MACFARLANE

Lax Outfielding of Harris And H. Rice Aid in Defeat; Cronin Knocks Home Run

Baltimore Scores 5 in 8th to Wipe Out Nats' Lead.

Griffith Hurls 3 Hitless Frames; West Leads Attack.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 12.—Just before the Nationals started their first 1931 exhibition game here this afternoon, with about 2,500 enthusiastic Biloxians in the stands, Barbara Johnson, 4-year-old daughter of the Washington Club manager, presented "Daddy" with a gold-plated horseshoe to give his team luck. It brought luck, all right, but most of it was bad, the result being that the Nationals absorbed a 7-to-6 defeat at the hands of the Baltimore Orioles.

The loss is charged to Pitcher Carl Fischer simply because there is nothing in the rules which permits the scorer to put the blame where it belongs—in this case against the records of Outfielders Dave Harris and Harry Rice. This pair proved to be the Orioles' best players, each contributing two runs to the alien cause in the eighth inning and thus turning what appeared to be a sure Washington victory into an ignominious defeat.

Bases Loaded By Fischer.

When the eighth opened, the Nationals were breezing along in front, 6 to 2. Fischer had granted three hits and walked a man, but not much damage had been done. With the bases loaded, Stroner then looped a single to left and Harris tore in too fast and, while he was retracing his steps, two runs scored. No error was charged simply because Harris did not touch the ball. Some of the pieces could have been saved, however, had Harry Rice hung onto Gonzales' tap, which followed, but the sphere popped out of his glove, two more gift runs resulted and away went the ball game.

Previously, the Nationals had completely outplayed the Orioles. Singles by Manush and Cronin and doubles by Judge and West, all after two were out in the first gave the Nats a three-run lead, and they scored two more times in the fourth on Judge's opening single, West's lusty triple and Bluege's fly, which would have been called a sacrifice under last season's rules. The other Washington run resulted from a homer to deep center off Cronin's bat starting the sixth.

Griffith Pitches 3 Hitless Innings.

Lynn Griffith pitched three hitless frames before the Orioles were able to make any impression. They greeted Walter Tauscher most effusively in the fourth when two singles and a double gave them two markers and then did not get another safety until the blow-off came in the eighth.

The Nationals outhit their guests, 11 to 7, with Sammy West showing the way with a double and triple. Manush and Judge also batted at a 1.000 clip, with Cronin's four-base clout being the biggest blow of the game.

Denny Sothern, a Washington boy, started with the Orioles, and was credited with one hit in three times up.

Battle in Progress For Two Jobs.

Despite the fact that Manager Johnson had his team practically set when he brought his men to camp here, two battles for jobs are still on, with the possibility of another in case Sammy West's throwing arm fails to respond in the normal manner.

Although there is no doubt but what Buddy Myer will start the season as the regular second baseman, Jack Hayes is performing so well and showing unmistakable signs of having improved as a hitter, and this has somewhat clouded Myer's claim to a clear title; in fact, some of the experts are willing to wager that Hayes will be stationed at second within six weeks after the season gets under way.

The other fight is for the utility hitting berth—between Cliff Bolton and Baxter Jordon. The former was a heavy favorite in the "winter book," but Jordan's long odds have been dropping steadily ever since he reported.

"Every one had told me that Jordan was a poor fielder," Johnson said tonight, "but he's not bad at all. He's a combination man, but hasn't a chance to break into the outfield. I tried him at third base in the rookie infield yesterday, and he handled himself well, and with a little improvement might be of some help to us. He's an infield candidate from now on."

Nats Pennant Choice of Boy, 15

"I AM expressing my opinion of the Washington Ball Club's future standing with pleasure, having been assured of a first place in the facts I have discovered," writes Edgar S. Knight, age 15, of 3148 O street northwest, to the Baseball Editor of The Post.

Eddie hits an original slant by stating that Alvin Crowder and Heinie Manush, as well as they played last year, were handicapped in no mean way by the fact that they were transferred from one team to another. A mid-year trade, of the sort which brought Manush and Crowder to the Nats, has a great tendency to throw those players off their stride. New scenes, new faces and new customs all stood a chance of hurting the play of these two worthies.

All that is changed this year, and young Mr. Knight believes that a pennant is Washington-bound because of it.

Substantially the team will remain as it finished. Eddie likes the looks of the pitching staff especially. Stating that the entire flinging roster will feel the effects of Hadley's improvement of form, Eddie looks upon the Nats' mound line-up of Jones, Crowder, Hadley, Marberry, Brown, Liska and Burker, as the most capable in the profession.

Likes Nat Pitching Staff

Cronin, West, Judge, Manush and Sam Rice are sure of their positions, but a merry battle is going to be waged between Buddy Myer and Jack Hayes, with the odds favoring Hayes if his hitting begins to blossom.

"If Spencer can learn the pitchers like Ruel did, he will be on a par with Cochrane," Eddie states in picking the Georgia backstop.

By his comprehensive letter, giving reasons for his assertions, Eddie takes his place in line for those six box seats for the opening game The Post is offering. Fans will have until April 1 to send their notions in. Keep 'em down to 250 words.

LOUGHRAN 6-5 FAVORITE TO BEAT SCHAAF TONIGHT

Heavies Meet In 4th Bout At Garden

Loughran Makes New Bid for Front-Rank Consideration.

Has Lost 2 Decisions to Schaaf; Both are Victors Over Baer.

NEW YORK, March 12 (A.P.).—Tommy Loughran, a bit scarred and aging but still full of fight and ambition, will get another chance tomorrow night to vault back into the front ranks of the heavyweight contenders. He will battle Ernie Schaff, the barrel-chested Bostonian, for ten rounds in Madison Square Garden.

A decisive victory will boost Tommy again into the center of the Sharkeys, Striblings, Schmelings and Carneras.

Tommy was up there once, after relinquishing the light-heavyweight throne, but Jack Sharkey rapped him so solidly on the temple he suffered a dizzy spell and had to be helped to a seat. Loughran has always blamed that defeat on an effort to put on too much weight too quickly in the effort to qualify as a heavyweight.

He scales about 182 pounds now and seems to have regained most of his former speed and boxing prowess.

Pair Has Fought Three Times.

There is nothing new about the Loughran-Schaaf show, the warriors having collided on three previous occasions. Ernie, too big and strong for Loughran, won two decisions and lost one. Since then, however, Tommy has improved to such an extent that he is a 6-to-5 favorite to win tomorrow night.

Both Schaaf and Loughran in recent months have outpointed Max Baer, California's newest heavyweight pride, but Tommy's performance was by far the more impressive.

Stanley Poreda, youthful New Jersey sensation, will meet Frankie Cawley, a stablemate of Loughran, in a ten-round heavyweight semifinal.

Colrick to Call Out G. U. Aspirants Today

Coach Johnny Colrick, trusting in the weather man's forecast of rising temperature, has called Georgetown University's baseball candidates to report for their initial practice of the season this afternoon on the new Hilltop field, Thirty-ninth street and Reservoir road.

The first workout will consist of little more than exercises to loosen muscles, with a bit of throwing to "get the feel of the ball." However, the pace will be speeded up shortly in order that a presentable team will be available for the opening game, scheduled on March 23, with Washington and Lee at Lexington.

The returning 1930 letter winners are Harry Poole and Harry Nosnesky, pitchers; Capt. Johnny Scalzi, second baseman; Phil Mooney, first baseman; Frank Baumann, shortstop; Walter Morris, third baseman; Bob Wholey, left fielder, and Johnny Bozek, right fielder. The ninth tried hand is Shorty Malone, regular center fielder of the 1929 team.

ROBINS DOWN PHILLIES, 10 TO 6

Brooklyn Scores 5 Runs Near End of Loose Game.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 12 (A.P.).—Aided by ragged fielding, the Brooklyn Dodgers came from behind to defeat the Philadelphia Nationals, 10 to 6, in the first of their two-game exhibition series today.

After jumping away to a five-run lead, the Dodgers saw their advantage fade in the fourth when Babe Phelps was pounded for six hits and as many runs. The Phillies' defense blew up in the eighth and ninth innings, however, allowing the Dodgers to count five runs.

Giant Sub at First Suffers Cold.

San Antonio, Tex., March 12 (U.P.). With Sam Leslie in bed with a heavy cold, the first basing in the camp of the New York Giants today was divided between Ethan Allen and Dynamite Mansfield, the latter a young outfielder from the now defunct Central League. So well pleased is Manager McGraw with the condition of the older members of the pitching staff that he has turned most of his attention to the rookie flingers.

Reds' Infield Intact For First Time.

Tampa, Fla., March 12 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds' regular infield today worked together as a complete unit for the first time this spring when Joe Stripp, third baseman, who has been ill with influenza, took his initial practice. Heath was at first, Cucinello at second, Durocher at short, and Jersey Joe at third.

Cubs Open Series With Angels.

Los Angeles, Calif., March 12 (A.P.). The Cubs engaged in no baseball activities today, spending the day in packing up and taking a boat ride back to the mainland.

They will open their exhibition series tomorrow against William Wrigley's Los Angeles Club.

Bucs Complain of Ball In Intrasquad Game.

Paso Robles, Calif., March 12 (A.P.). The Pittsburgh Pirates camp game between the Regulars and Yannigans resulted in a scoreless deadlock today. The seconds made four hits off Meine and Wood, while the regulars found Willoughby, former Phil, and Grant for seven.

It was a nine-inning contest and the so-called dead ball was blamed by the batters for a scarcity of heavy hitting.

alternated at second and third, sitting on the bench. Sewell's hitting has been especially pleasing to "Marse Joe."

Reynolds' Appearance Relieves Bush.

San Antonio, Tex., March 12 (A.P.). With his outfield all set, his batterymen working satisfactorily, Donie Bush's White Sox worries have been reduced to the infield problem.

Carl Reynolds appeared today and Bush turned all of his attention to shortstop and first basemen. He has four candidates for the former job, namely Luke Appling, Irving Jeffries, Gregory Mulleavy and Jack Ryan, but none has sold himself to Bush. Ray Radcliff, first base hope, also has not measured up and appears likely to be replaced by Johnny Watwood, who played in the outfield most of last season.

Tigers Open Practice Tour Today.

Sacramento, Calif., March 12 (A.P.). Manager Bucky Harris herded one division of his Detroit Tigers aboard a train tonight bound for San Francisco, where they will open a 36-game exhibition schedule tomorrow with the San Francisco Seals.

Battle Urge Gone, Dempsey Says; Declares Retirement Is Final

LOS ANGELES, March 12 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey came out today with a statement that most ring critics have contended for several years—that as a fighter he is through.

"I have definitely decided to engage in no more fights," the former world's heavyweight champion said. "The old urge for battle is gone. I know that I could never be at my physical best if I fought again, and I feel that I could not justify the ambition of my friends were I to go back."

Dempsey said that he had been "on the fence" over the matter for three years and that this statement is final. The financial success of the Manassa Mauler's tour of the country as a referee is believed as much as anything responsible for the announcement.

Hitting The Head Pin

THE excitement of the National Duckpin Bowling Congress' recently concluded fourth annual United States championships having subsided almost entirely, a pair of attractive private sweepstakes now occupy the local spotlight. They are the second annual running of Bill Wood "Dub" Sweepstakes, and the first annual Maryland - Virginia Sweepstakes, both of which will start tomorrow night, the former at Lucky Strike and the latter on the Mount Rainier drives.

Altogether approximately 178 bowlers are expected to compete in the two events, 100 in the "Dub" affair and the rest in the suburban stakes. Fifteen games will be rolled in three blocks in each event, total pins to count.

Entrance in the Bill Wood tournament is limited to those duckpinners, either men or women, whose league average is not over 106. Prospective entrants must furthermore prove that their respective averages do not exceed this total. Nonleague rollers also are eligible.

The Maryland - Virginia stakes, which are sponsored by the Maryland-Virginia Suburban Duckpin Association, impose even stricter entrance requirements on those who would compete for some of the rich prizes offered. Only those pinmen who have rolled with some suburban team this season are eligible to enter.

Entries in both stakes can be made up until one-half hour before starting time, which is 7:30 p. m.

Branch, Star N. C. Back, Quits Temporarily

Chapel Hill, N. C., March 12 (A.P.). Johnny Branch, flashy University of North Carolina quarterback for the past two years, has temporarily left school because of financial and other difficulties.

He expects to return in the spring, make up his scholastic work this summer and be a candidate for next fall's team.

Local Women Golfers Will Gather Monday

The annual meeting of the Women's District Golf Association will be held Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Willard Hotel, room 128, it was announced last night by Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, president of the association.

Election of officers and completion of the schedule of events for the year will be the major business. Final action on the naming of Congressional Country Club as the scene of the women's District championship will be taken.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE TRANSACTIONS OF YESTERDAY

ARNINGS REPORTS SEND STOCKS DOWN

tility and Rubber Shares Survive Lower Trend, Remaining Firm.

New York, March 13 (A.P.).—The speculative fraternity mind was on poor earnings statements and unfavorable dividend decisions today, and stock prices suffered.

After fighting the downward trend for a time, the market finally gave in to the prevailing sentiment and closed lower. Tobacco, amusement, rubber and a handful of utility issues kept their heads above water, but rails, electrical equipments and diversified assortment of other industrials weakened. Sears, who have been favored by recent turns in the news, launched their most profitable attack in the last hour and the close was weak. The turnover was 2,500,000 shares, still relatively small, although larger than yesterday's.

Part of the morning damage done the carrier shares was repaired. New York Central, after breaking 3 points to the new 1930 low of 110¾, cut its loss in two and Pennsylvania reduced a much smaller maximum decline, while Atchison actually closed 2 points higher. Discussion over Baltimore & Ohio's present $7 rate and a belief that it, as well as some other prominent lines, might follow Central's lead, adversely affected the group as a whole and net losses ranged from 1 to 9 points.

Dividend Revision Denied.

The extreme drop was by Pittsburgh & West Virginia, off 9 points, although Nickel Plate, another Van Sweringen property, lost 8. Reports that some of Pennsylvania's directors were advocating a dividend revision were squelched promptly and officially with a statement that the matter had not even been discussed.

Westinghouse broke 4 points on publication of last year's earnings and the shrinkage in backlog, recovering a fraction of the loss. United States Steel sagged a point to 143¾, a new low for the decline, while American Can, Radio, General Electric, Union Carbide, Sears Roebuck, Electric Power & Light and Montgomery Ward ended the day from ¾ to 1½ lower. United Gas Improvement gained prominence among the utilities by making a new high. Public Service of New Jersey and Brooklyn Union Gas were also strong, but Consolidated Gas was unable to hold an early 2-point rise. Byers was again soft; so were corn products, Worthington Pump, Case, Auburn and United Aircraft. Allied Chemical, however, rallied 3¼.

Copper Improves Slowly.

The statistical position of copper improves very slowly. Production last month was down 2,600 tons, but the reduction in stocks of refined showed the nominal decrease of 188 tons. Nevertheless, the continued move in the right direction caused producers to refuse sales at 10 cents, and the domestic price was advanced ¼ cent after the export quotation had been cut.

Secretary Doak's announcement of a 1.4 per cent rise in employment during February and a 7.5 per cent gain in pay roll was welcome news, especially to those who look beyond the day-to-day fluctuations of stocks. Money was shaded in both the demand and time loan markets as funds began to pile up for next week's enormous turn-over.

Wheat and corn closed under the day's high, but net changes were inconsequential and both markets narrow. Covering rallied cotton, which had been drifting lower all week, and final prices represented advances of 6 to 9 points.

Foreign exchanges were dull, with the French franc slightly better.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, March 13 (A.P.).—Grain prices receded here today from early appreciation. Wheat bulges failed to hold in the face of persistent heavy liquidation and of suggestions of winter crop conditions, as well as better moisture in spring wheat territory, especially Canada and North Dakota. Corn fell back with wheat, although corn declines were the smallest in a long while. Oats ended irregular at ¼ cent decline to ⅛ up; cattle, 10 to 15c higher, and provisions unchanged to 2 to 15c decline.

Before grain prices turned downward, the chief dominating influence was the fear that Argentine wheat shipments for the week would total not to exceed 2,128,000 bushels, an extremely small quota from Argentina at this time of the year. Accordingly, the trade ignored increased offerings from Russia and Australia of 1,776,000 bushels. Helping the bull cause was the scarcity of cash offers in the Kansas City market, with offers there 6 cents under the world's parity, notwithstanding that India's harvest was proceeding under favorable weather conditions.

Some of the subsequent increased downward pressure on wheat values at Chicago resulted from spreading of corn against wheat purchases of corn against sales of wheat. Miscellaneous sales of wheat also were said against September purchases of identical figures. Notice was taken, too, of a special meeting of Board of Trade directors to discuss the dangerous congestion of grain elevators. Uneasiness over storage space was associated with current trade estimates that the season's total crop of wheat July 1 next would be 300,000,000 bushels in this country and 500,000,000 in Canada, making a surplus likely to be 500,000,000 bushels for North America.

In corn, the fact that shipping sales picked volumes was a handicap to bulls, although it was contended that the setback would not be severe, much stress being laid on the beginning of the season. Only here and there upheld by extreme scantiness of receipts.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—A further decline in cotton at the opening today in response to lower Liverpool cables and a bearish interpretation of consumption figures was followed by rallies on trade buying and covering. May contracts after selling off 10.75 under the early pressure, advanced to 10.95 and closed steady at net advances of 6 to 9 points.

The openings were due to the weakness in Liverpool cables, a decline in Egyptian futures and reports of a decline in Alexandria. There was further selling here through houses with Liverpool connections. This was followed by a renewal of liquidation, combined with Southern and local selling which appeared to be promoted by reports that the world's consumption of American cotton for the first half of this season was only 5,375,000 bales, compared with 5,940,000 for the preceding 6-month period.

The decline extended to 10.53 for October and 11.29 for October making net losses of about 8 points on the active months. But offerings were absorbed by covering and trade buying at the decline and trading later became less active and steadier. March advanced with the market while October sold up to 10.77, making net gains of 7 to 13 points on the day.

Liverpool cables attributed the decline in that market to continental and Manchester selling due to the weakness in Alexandria and a bearish interpretation of the international figures on world's consumption for the first half of the season. Egyptian futures in the Alexandria market were 22 to 49 points lower and the Liverpool spot quotation for spot cotton was 8 points lower.

According to the New York Cotton Exchange service, consumption of lint cotton of all growths in this country for February was 411,000 bales, compared with 494,000 in January and 498,000 in February last year. The daily rate in February was 19,571 bales, against 20,160 bales this year in January and 18,900 in February last year. The decline in the demand in the market and the bulk of the business in the near months was attributed to trade buying and hedging, was comparatively light after the close of Liverpool offerings were comparatively light after the close of Liverpool. Exports today, 43,985, making 5,298,942 so far this season. Port receipts, 32,936. U. S. port stocks, 3,835,264.

RAIL BONDS DECLINE AS 30 OTHERS DROP

Warner Brothers Pictures Focus Attention With Higher Prices.

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—An irregular decline marked the bond market today.

Led by obligations of the Van Sweringen carriers the railroad issues proved the most vulnerable group. The Standard Statistics average of 30 leading bonds closed with a drop of four-tenths point at 96.8. The decline in the railroad average alone was a full point to 101.8, a new low level for 1931.

Chesapeake & Ohio series B refunding 4½s Erie refunding and improvement 5s of 1967 and of 1975, New York, Chicago & St. Louis series C 6½s, Missouri Pacific series F and H 5s and Allegheny Corporation issues closed with sizable declines after large sales. Weakness was conspicuous in this group but far from exclusive to it.

St. Louis, San Francisco series A 6s and the 4½s, of 1978; Chicago, Burington & Quincy refunding 4½s, St. Paul adjustment 5s, Chicago & Northwestern series A, 4¾s, which made a new low at 83¾; Rock Island 4½s, of 1960, and Big Four general 4s lost 1 point or more.

Warner Brothers Pictures 6s was again a focus of attention at higher prices throughout the day on steady trading. Earlier this week these bonds slumped sharply without apparent reason. The trend in most industrial issues was downward, although the losses were not so marked as among the rail liens.

Foreign bonds were generally higher but activity in this group was concentrated in a few issues. Most Argentine obligations were higher and a few of them were active. Most Brazilian National, provincial and municipal bonds closed higher. The trend in German liens was mixed and the 5½s of the Federal Government slumped on a heavy turnover.

Obligations of the United States Government closed higher but the demand was irregular.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

MORE WATER PIPES NEEDED, IS CLAIM

Monarch Club at Arlington Is Told of Threat of Extended Drought.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Speaking at the weekly luncheon of the Arlington County Monarch Club yesterday at Windsor Arms, County Engineer C. L. Kinnier declared that the installation of the county water system is the greatest move made toward progress. He advocated legislation at the next session of the General Assembly for another water bond issue so that mains may be extended along all built-up streets in the county.

In addition to the need for more funds for further extensions he pointed out that last summer there were 2,200 consumers and the service mains across the Chain Bridge were taxed to their capacity. There are now 3,100 consumers and it is evident that unless the mains are enlarged there will have to be a curtailment in the use of water this summer. In addition to the needs for the county provisions must be made to supply the town of Falls Church, Mr. Kinnier pointed out.

Kinnier stated that while the water department is in debt $77,000, it is largely due to the fact that the county officials went ahead the past year in face of the drought conditions and extended the mains. He stated that the income amounts to about $75,000 a year, which has to be set aside to take care of the bonds as they come due.

Another question which he touched upon was the county zoning ordinance, another progressive move, he declared.

He stated that on the morning of March 31, at 10 o'clock, the county board of supervisors will hold a public hearing on a number of proposed amendments. None of these, he stated, is of a drastic nature. They in most cases refer to the setback of buildings and the question of allowing certain classes of business in the business area.

President Cohen announced the appointment of the following committee to work with the committee from the Arlington County Civic Federation in its plans for the bicentenial: Maj. F. H. Goff, George A. Rucker, C. R. Boyland, Arthur J. Porter, A. H. Cohen and Dr.

The president announced the annual State convention will be held at Richmond, June 29 and 30 and July 1.

The Arlington County Business and Professional Women's Club will hold its second annual public relations dinner this evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Army-Navy Club in Arlington County. Mrs. Albert H. Cohen, president, will preside.

Miss Charl Williams, of Washington, field secretary of the National Education Association, will be the principal speaker. Miss Williams will speak on "the Aims and Accomplishments of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs."

Among the honored guests will be Representative R. Walton Moore, Representative-elect Judge Howard W. Smith, Circuit Judge Walter T. McCarthy, State Senator Frank L. Ball, Delegate Hugh Reid, Albert H. Cohen, president of the Arlington County Monarch Club; A. F. Thelander, president of the Arlington Rotary Club; Louis C. Carl, president of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce; Harry A. Fellows, president of the Arlington County Civic Federation; Mrs. Ruby G. Simpson, president of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County; Mrs. Bertha Kelly, chairman of the Arlington County Chapter, American Red Cross; Fletcher Kemp, county school superintendent; the Rev. Elmer Lucas, president of the Ministerial Union of Arlington County; Mrs. Margaret Germond, vice president of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs of the State of Virginia, and Mrs. Mary W. Troth, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Alexandria.

To avoid any possible prosecution, C. Wayne Carr, State traffic officer, again last night stressed the importance of all motorists to have their automobiles checked for proper lights, brakes, horns, and other safety devices, as a crew of State inspectors will be in the county next week for the purpose of making a check to see that the State law is being complied with.

Officer Carr announces the following places in Arlington and Fairfax Counties where cars can be tested in accordance with the State law: Arlington County — Cherrydale Garage, Cherrydale; Bauserman Motor Co., Arlington; Alcova Garage, Alcova Heights; Fred Windridge, Rosslyn; Arlington Motor Co., (Ford cars only), Heitt's Service Station, East Falls Church.

Fairfax County—Dunn Service Station, Woodruff's Corner; Horn Motor Co., Herndon, and Harrison's Garage, Herndon.

Addressing a joint meeting of the three home nurses classes which are being sponsored by the Arlington County Chapter, American Red Cross, held last night in the Lyon Park Community House, Dr. F. M. Chichester, county health officer, spoke on "Causes and Prevention of Diseases."

Dr. Chichester stressed that every effort must be made to prevent tranference of excretion from persons to the well.

Dr. Chichester further pointed out that it must be remembered that the undeveloped mind and activities of the child should be directed by those on whom the responsibility rests; the parent.

At a quartrly conference of the Clarendon Methodist Church held last night, the Board of Christian Education was organized for the purpose of unifying the educational work of the church, with the following members chosen: J. O. Woodward, superintendent of the Sunday school; Mrs. George H. Parker, president of Woman's Missionary Society; Mrs. George Hamilton, superintendent of the children's division; T. B. Manny, superintendent of young people's division; Robert A. Pearson, superintendent of adult division, and Albert Tillson, additional representative of young people.

Mrs. Albert B. Cohen, left, president of the Arlington County Business and Professional Women's Club, will preside at the second annual public relations dinner to be given tonight at the Army-Navy Club in Arlington. NEED OF ART CITED IN LYNCHBURG TALK Randolph-Macon Woman's College Celebrates Founder's Day.

Lynchburg, Va., March 12 (A.P.).—Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky, in the annual founder's day address of Randolph-Macon Woman's College, here tonight emphasized the need of art in the interpretation of life.

"This explains our relation to the beautiful," he said. "Art is a real understanding of things; it is a grip on life; its reality and its spirit. The spirit of art is not simply the art that is seen in a great poem, a beautiful picture or an outstanding piece of sculpture, but it is a thing that can be carried into the houses we live in, the clothes we wear, the furniture we use, and into the human relations of every day life."

The exercises were held in Smith Memorial Auditorium, and were attended by officers and faculty of the college, in academic costume.

They were preceded by the founder's day supper given by the Lynchburg Chapter of the Randolph-Macon alumnae. Dr. Robert Emory Blackwell, president of Randolph-Macon College for men, was the supper speaker. He spoke of his personal recollections of former president, Dr. W. W. Smith, founder of Randolph-Macon Woman's College.

Dr. McVey said that a college should give its students a knowledge of English, a knowledge of literature, how to use a library, the meaning of history, and what science is. To this list Dr. McVey would add the inculcation of manners, a development of courtesy, the acceptance of tolerance as a sporting attitude, and intellectual honesty. He should also have made a beginning on the philosophy of life, and a conception of religion and its relationship to the interpretation of life.

Derby Lottery Tickets Charged With Fraud

Roanoke, Va., March 12 (A.P.).—Commonwealth's Attorney Robert S. Smith said today he had received proof that a series of lottery tickets on the English Derby Sweepstakes at Epsom Downs were fraudulent.

The tickets, he said, bore the words, "Legalized in Newfoundland and investigation invited." A letter of investigation was mailed from Roanoke to the oldest colony hospital fund, St. John's, Newfoundland. Today the letter came back bearing the words: "Fraudulent; mail to this address returned by order of the postmaster general."

LOUDOUN TEACHERS FACE SALARY CUTS

Requests for New School and Instructors Denied for Lack of Funds.

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., March 12.—Teachers of Loudoun County face a possible reduction in salaries for 1931-32 as a result of action taken by the county school board at its regular monthly meeting held yesterday in the office of Division Superintendent O. L. Emerick, in Purcellville.

The board ordered that the salaries of all teachers and supervisors shall be in accordance with the existing salary schedule for 1930-31; provided, however, that all salaries shall be subject to a possible reduction on account of the insufficiency of the income for 1931-32 to maintain the present salaries.

Delegations appearing before the school board were denied their requests for an additional high school teacher at Middleburg and a new school building at Mountville, due to lack of funds. Lack of funds also caused the board to deny requests for additional classrooms at St. Louis, Bull Run and Williaville, and for provision for four years of high school work for colored children.

The board ordered the Airmont and Paxson Schools to be closed for lack of attendnance and the pupils transported to Bluemont.

The following appointmentns were made for 1931-32: High school principals—Charles S. Monroe, Ashburn; J. F. Harrison, Round Hill; J. Lupton Simpson, Waterford; J. S. Simpson, Lucketts; A. O. Hutton, Unison-Bloomfield; Gaylord Gibson, Middleburg; Henry P. White, Lincoln. Graded schools—Bertha E. Gruver, Purcellville; Estelle White, Hamilton; Sarah Cox, Lincoln. Rural school supervisor, Mrs. Emile Windle. For completion of Leithton School term after March 18, Mrs. Rebie Critzer Piggott.

Search for Suspect In Attack Case Fails

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., March 12.—County police made no progress toward establishing the identity of a Negro who yesterday attempted to attack a 14-year-old white girl walking home from school near Schoolfield.

The child was in the hands of a doctor today following the attempted attack. Her cries frightened the Negro away and she ran to a nearby house and told Harry Robertson, who with others trailed the Negro unsuccessfully before notifying police.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

FIREARMS AND BRIDGE.

DEAR Sir: I see by the papers that a woman who shot her husband in an argument over the playing of a bridge hand has been acquitted by a jury, with simple honors. As one of the millions of American married men frequently called on to play bridge with his wife, I am wondering just what I am to understand from this action.

Do you think that twelve men good and true served notice on the husbands of this country that whatever happened to them at bridge served them right? Or is it just a step to speed up the game.

ADDISON SIMS OF SEATTLE.

* * * *

DEAR Mr. Sims: Just what the jury meant to imply is not clear, but the consensus of bridge experts so far questioned is that male players in mixed bridge tournaments should "travel well armed and be ready for any emergency. It looks like every man for himself.

Complete familiarity with the rules of bridge would seem the better part of valor from now on. Wives throughout the land will take encouragement from this acquittal, and it behooves all husbands to proceed cautiously. The bridge masters of America are already considering what will be known as the Smith & Wesson convention, under which bridge table bidding will take place in this form:

"Two spades."
"I double two spades."
"I redouble."
"Bang! Bang!"

* * * *

No matter what the Missouri jury had in mind in the acquittal, it is well to realize that some promiscuous shooting might do the game a lot of good socially as well as scientifically. In fact, you only have to watch the plays at an average bridge table to come to the conclusion that an artillery barrage would be very helpful. All bridge experts agree that not nearly enough bridge players are shot.

* * * *

The question the experts will have to decide is when to start shooting. Some authorities favor shooting the kibitzers immediately after the opening deal as a means of making the game at least 30 per cent enjoyable. Shooting the dealer would be next in order by a majority vote of the persons holding cards. It will generally be agreed that players who habitually say, "Oh, I forgot the king and queen hadn't been played," might be shot at any stage of the game, and that shooting is too good for the player, man or woman, who goes into a post-mortem discussion of each hand.

* * * *

IF, as the Western court has held, it is all right for a woman bridge player to shoot a male player, it may be assumed it is all right for a man player to take a few pot shots at a woman player during the evening.

* * * *

Other rules under which mixed bridge parties might well proceed, pending definite word from a commission of experts, are:

1. Informatory bidding by the use of firearms is prohibited.
2. A partner may be taken out either by a higher bid or by direct hit.
3. The "dummy" shall be considered a noncombatant.

RUTH NICHOLS IS DIFFERENT

Miss Ruth Nichols went up in the air six miles the other day in an airplane, the only novelty being the fact that she was the first woman to need an airplane to do it.

STILL, IT SERVES HIM RIGHT.

RUDY VALLEE is to present an ancient saxophone to the Henry Ford Museum. We knew Henry would live to regret going in for antiques.

Jackie Coogan, at 16, is to get a salary of $7,500 a week. That boy is going to be terribly disillusioned when he grows up and has to go to work for a living.

Amelia Earhart says that mothers should always accompany children on their first airplane flight. Just to see that they don't get any dangerous habits.

193X VERSION.

"Mother, may I go out to fly?"
"Yes, intrepid daughter;
And I'll go with you thru the sky
As ev'ry mother oughter!"

TAX LEVIES BUDGET ADOPTED IN FAIRFAX

Total of $517,436.32 to Be Raised; Detail of Items Is Made Public.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon, 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors at a special meeting yesterday adopted the final budget for the 1931-32 fiscal year on which tax levies will be made. Including both county and District levies the budget calls for a total of $517,436.32 to be raised.

In considering the various items the supervisors reduced the amount for upkeep of public buildings $1,000 lower than was proposed in the tentative budget, which was adopted last month. There was a great deal of discussion on whether or not the county was getting value received from the county health unit. Under the arrangement now in force, Representative R. Walton Moore and the Fairfax County Chapter of the Red Cross contributed $1,000 each to the upkeep of this unit, Fairfax County appropriated $5,500 and the balance necessary for the unit was contributed by the Virginia Public Health Service. Under the arrangement made with the State Health Department recently the county appropriation was increased to $5,750, the balance will be paid by the State, abolishing all private contributions.

Centreville School Levy.

The board made a special levy of $1,500 for the improvement of schools in Centreville district. In Lee district the proposed special levy of $3,000 was abolished because of the unemployment and drought conditions prevailing at this time. It was originally proposed that $7,500 be raised in Mount Vernon district for the building of schools.

It was brought out yesterday that to raise this amount would entail a levy of 25 cents on the $100 property valuation, and as it was felt this amount would be excessive at this time, the appropriation was cut to $1,500. This will be used toward the erection of a school in the Franconia neighborhood.

The budget, as adopted, appropriates out of a county levy, $1,500 salary of the board of supervisors, $4,975 for the county clerk, $1,200 for the sheriff, $2,000 jail expenses, $1,200 salary for Commonwealth's attorney, $11,022.81 treasurer's commissions, $6,500 commissioner of revenue, $1,800 for deputy sheriffs, and $3,500 for the office supples, of the various county offices.

The amount appropriated for the various judicial branches includes $800 as the county share of the salary of the judge of the circuit court, $420 salary of judge of the juvenile and domestic relations court, $2,000 for payment of juries, jury commissioners, coroner and lunacy hearings.

$5,000 For Courthouse.

In the upkeep of the courthouse $5,000 was included for repairs and maintenance, $1,080 janitor salary. The account for poor relief was set at $8,000, for public health $5,750, for holding elections including pay of election judges, $2,500 was allowed, $1,000 was set aside for animals killed by dogs, with $400 for other incidental expenses.

Included in the budget to be paid out of the county levies was $1,834 for salary of divisional superintendent of schools, $70,794.75 administration costs of schools, $130,290 for payment of teachers' salaries, and $1,310 payment of school debts, making a total of $200,887.48.

The amount to be raised for county road fund amounts to $371,445.2; of this $4,100 salary of county engineer, $6,200 for general salaries, $700 for office equipment, $200 for engineering equipment, $22,000 for construction of bridges and $137,368.04 will be used in the county road fund.

$7,500 For Veterans.

The miscellaneous items in the budget include: $7,500 for pension of Confederate veterans and their widows; $984 county portion of farm agent's salary; $1,100 salary of home demonstration agent; $200 for prevention of forest fires; $2,000 for county road police; $500 for State accountants; $1,500 salary of superintendent of public welfare; $4,500 county fire protection; $965 salary of superintendent of schools and $200 for the Children's Home in Richmond. This makes a total of $450,894.52 to be raised for general county appropriations.

In the various magisterial districts $66,541.80 will be raised for expenditures in the district where raised. In Centerville district there will be a special levy to raise $1,500 for school building purposes and the district road levy will amount to $132.19. The special school levy in Dranesville district will be $3,994.54, the district road levy will be $156.09 and the amount to be raised for a sinking fund and interest on the special road bond issue will be $21,413.76.

Lee District Levy Smallest.

The smallest district levy will be in Lee district and is the road levy of $136.37. The amount to be raised in Falls Church district will be $6,609.57 for schools, $274.22 for district roads and $17,889.26 for road bond issue sinking fund and interest. In Mount Vernon district there will be a special levy to raise $1,500 for school buildings, $341.93 for district roads and $4,843.80 for road bond issue interest and sinking fund. In Providence district $5,886.94 will be raised for school bond issue, $394.16 and for road bond issue and interest $2,068.86.

The actual figures upon which the levy will be based are not as yet available because of the changes made by the county board of tax equalization and review. It is expected that the figures on real estate valuation will be increased but not as much as at first believed, and a decrease of approximately $200,000 in the estimated returns on personal property.

The budget as finally adopted yesterday can not be altered or changed except upon unanimous consent of the entire board of supervisors and then they can not either add or subtract more than 10 per cent of any item of the budget. The rates to raise the amount called for in the budget will be sent at the next meeting of the board, which will be held on April 1.

The high school teachers of Fairfax County held a meeting in the Oakton School for the purpose of making out a detailed outline for a study course of teaching for guidance and assistance in the teaching of subjects in the high schools. It was decided to use the State course of study in its skeleton form and to group the related materials in an outline so as it will assist in the unit method of teaching and at the same time conform to any other method of instruction. This will materially aid in vocational guidance work.

Teachers were appointed on committees to prepare outlines in accordance with their personal choices. The teachers with special training in given subjects were requested to work with the committees dealing with the subjects they are interested in.

At the request of the group teachers present, Divisional Superintendent of Schools Wilbert T. Woodson appointed the chairman of the various committees with the suggestion that the chairmen select their own vice chairmen. The chairmen of the committees include: Miss N. Gregory Edwards, of Falls Church, English; Miss Martha Reely, of Lee Jackson, history; Mrs. Eunice Middleton, of Herndon, mathematics; Miss Mary J. Cline, of Herndon, general science and chemistry; Gordon E. Smith, of McLean, biology; Miss Mary M. Snead, of Oakton, Latin, and Adele Pfalzgraf, of McLean, French.

Miss Sara E. Thomas, Fairfax County home demonstration agent, will attend the meeting of the 4-H clubs in Mount Vernon district today. This morning Miss Thomas will be assisted by Mrs. J. Shepard in giving a demonstration on the preparation of potato dishes at Fort Humphreys. In the afternoon the meat preparation demonstration will be given at Potters Hill and Lorton. Mrs. Kenneth Dove will assist Miss Thomas at Lorton.

The Woodlawn School and Community League will hold its meeting this afternoon in the school house.

Mrs. O. B. Livingston will act as hostess at a meeting of the Falls Church Women's Club today in the Falls Church Library. The guest speaker will be the district superintendent, Mrs. Eli Swavely, of Manassas, and a paper will be read by Mrs. George B. Fadeley.

The Potters Hill School League will meet this evening in the auditorium of the Potters Hill School.

The Annandale School and Community League will hold its meeting this evening in the auditorium of the Annandale School.

The Northern Virginia Past Matrons and Patrons Association, Order of Eastern Star will meet this evening at the home of Mrs. Jane Jones in Cherrydale.

The Junior League of the Chesterbrook School will hold its meeting this afternoon in the auditorium of the Chesterbrook School. The program will be in charge of Miss Kathleen Fletcher.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., March 12.—Mrs. Gertrude Counter Hutchinson, 43, wife of F. E. Hutchinson, of Chesterfield County, died this morning at the home of her father-in-law, E. S. Hutchinson, Ettrick. Mrs. Hutchinson's death occurred on her birthday.

Mrs. Hutchinson is survived by her husband, one son, Lloyd Trethway Hutchinson, of Chesterfield, and three sisters, Mrs. Florence Bunclark, of Sherbrooke, Canada; Mrs. M. Smeardon, of Montreal, Canada, and Mrs. Robert Veal, of Galetta, Canada.

NEW FIRE COMPANY IN COUNTY'S GROUP

Specifications Are Adopted by Prince Georges Association.

The new Tuxedo, Md., Volunteer Fire Company was admitted to the Prince Georges County Firemen's Association last night after a sharp debate on the requirements for admission. The advisory board of the association also drew up specifications for standard equipment for engines in the county.

The vote in favor of admitting the Tuxedo company was 29 to 5. The by-laws of the body were later amended to provide that no company whose apparatus is not motorized and does not meet the specifications may be admitted to the association.

The association distributes to its members the sum annually received from the county for the upkeep of fire companies. This amount is now $5,000, but a bill introduced in the Legislature yesterday increases the sum to $15,000. The present sum is divided on a pro rata basis, but the increased amount will probably be distributed on the basis of equipment used by the companies.

Specifications for standard equipment were proposed as follows:

Class A pumper—Pump of at least 350-gallon capacity, manufacturer's rating; 500 feet 2½-inch hose, one 10-foot length of suction hose, 150 feet ¾ or 1-inch chemical or booster hose and nozzle, one 18-foot extension ladder, one ax, one pike pole, one crowbar, two 2½-inch shut-off nozzles, two 2½-gallon hand extinguishers, one lantern and one warning signal.

Class B aerial or service truck—200 feet of ladder, two pike poles, two axes, two lanterns, one door opener, one crowbar, two trapaulins, at least 12 feet by 12 feet; 100 feet of rope, at least ½ inch; one life belt, one gas mask, one pair high-tension pliers and one warning signal.

Class C rescue squad wagon—One standard first-aid kit, one stretcher, one cot, assortment of splints, one gas mask, one inhalator with two extra tanks of oxygen and one warning signal.

Class D nonpumper—One 30-gallon chemical tank or booster tank with 150 feet ¾ or 1-inch hose with nozzle, one 18-foot extension ladder, one ax, one lantern, one pike pole, one crowbar, two 2½-gallon extinguishers and one warning signal.

Class E hose wagon—One 18-foot extension ladder, one roof ladder, one ax, one pike pole, one lantern, two 2½-inch nozzles, 500 feet 2½-inch hose, one 2½-gallon extinguisher and one warning signal.

Class F forest fire fighter—Four 5-gallon pressure cans, one back firer, twelve rakes, two bush hooks, two axes, two shovels with long handles, two shovels with short handles, six buckets and one warning signal.

The bill to provide for extension of the park system in Prince Georges County has been indorsed by the town council of Bladensburg, which will advise State Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer of its action. Earlier in the week the citizens of Mount Rainier had gone on record as being against the measure, which provides for a bond issue of $800,000 for the purchase of park lands.

A $15,000 fire early yesterday morning completely destroyed the garage of the Padgett Motor & Tractor Co. in District Heights, as well as about ten cars and tractors in the building.

The first fire engines to arrive found the blaze confined to the office, but lack of water allowed the fire to spread. Water had to be carried about 2 miles in the small tanks on the fire engines. Companies from Capitol Heights, Greater Capitol Heights, Seat Pleasant, Boulevard Heights and Marlboro answered the alarm.

Although the 1930 census of Prince Georges County school children shows 24,280 children under 19 in the county, no white child and only two colored children are shown as being out of the schools when they should be enrolled.

Fifty-nine children are kept out of school because of physical defects and 40 because they are mentally defective.

Of the total number of school age in the county, 13,628 are enrolled in the school system. This is an increase of 723 over the 1928 census. Of this total, 10,015 are white children and 3,613 are colored. White children account for 654 of the increase in enrollment.

Nonpublic schools teach 1,249 pupils. Boys outnumber the girls of school age in the county, according to the census. There are 9,090 white boys as compared to 8,476 white girls, and 3,425 colored boys as compared to 3,289 colored girls.

Funeral services will be held Monday in Baltimore for Robert Weyfort who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Prince, in Meadows. Mr. Weyfort was 65 and had lived in Forestville about five years.

Death was sudden, though he had not been well for some time. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Weyfort; two sons, Carl C. and Theodore, and Mrs. Prince.

Haggermaker was unhurt.

METHANOL MEASURE DEFEATED BY HOUSE

Maryland Delegates Accept Unfavorable Report; Other Bills Pass.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 12.—The House of Delegates adopted today an unfavorable committee report on the proposed law providing for the sale of Methanol, an antifreeze mixture for automobiles, in the State. A move to recommit the bill was beaten and Delegate Szamski, of Baltimore, then led the fight for the adoption of the report. He charged that the bill was designed to push industrial alcohol plants out of business, to the favor of the DuPont Corporation of Delaware, makers of the substance.

The bill was introduced in the House several weeks ago by request, by Chairman Edmonds, of the Montgomery County delegation.

The second lively fight developed over the bill by Delegate Heaps, of the Harford County delegation, and an official of the State Dairymen's Association, to place upon the State the expense of the tuberculin test of cattle.

Opposition Loses Fight.

Baltimore City forces attempted to defeat the measure, but were overwhelmingly defeated by the county groups, and the measure finally was sent to the third reading file after being amended to place half the expense upon the communities where such tests are conducted.

Two additional measures affecting the workmen's compensation made their appearance in the House. Floor Leader Lindsay, of Baltimore County, sponsored one that would increase the assessment maximum of employers or insurers from $100,000 to $110,000, while the other was by Mr. Szamski to place illegitimate children under provisions of the law.

Delegate Galbreth, Allegany County, sponsored a bill making killings by convicts attempting to escape from penal institutions, prima facie evidence of first degree murder.

All employes of State prisons would be eligible for pensions under provisions of a bill by Delegate Grieshaker, Baltimore City. Those who have heretofore retired from service would also reap the benefit. The proposed act would reduce the retirement age from 64 to 60 and the length of service from 20 to 16.

35 Measures Are Passed.

The Senate cleared its third reading file of a total of 35 bills, including one giving the public service commission supervision over holding companies and another directing the State agricultural board to adopt uniform State trade-marks, labels and bands and to have them copyrighted.

The Senate elections committee today heard arguments of counsel in the contest brought by Thomas B. R. Mudd, Republican, against Walter J. Mitchell, Democrat, elected last November by the small margin of 34 votes. Mr. Mudd claimed irregularities in the election. The committee announced it would hold an executive session to decide the issue. Mr. Mitchell, who was elected president of the Senate when it organized in January, is serving his fifth term in that body.

Danville Attack Case Is Mistrial

Marvin Scism, One of 13 Accused, Will Face Jury Again Monday.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., March 12.—The trial of Marvin Scism, one of thirteen textile union members indicted for an "attack by mob" on C. W. McKellar and his daughter last December, terminated in a mistrial in the corporation court today. The jury was unable to agree after nearly three hours' deliberation.

Scism will be retried Monday. Tomorrow will see cases against others brought up. McKellar was positive in identifying Scism, saying that Scism was one of several men who struck him with a piece of pipe and that he also recognized Felix Dabbs who knocked out several teeth. Dabbs proved he was in Burlington, N. C., at the time and Scism supported by other witnesses said he was not at the scene.

Jury in Strike Attack Trial Unable to Agree

Danville, Va., March 12 (A.P.).—Failure of the jury to agree after 2 hours and 30 minutes deliberations resulted in a mistrial today of the case of Marvin Scism, one of the thirteen men charged with being a member of a group attacking C. W. McKellar, nonunion textile worker and his daughter, Irene, last December during the textile strike here.

The other defendants, charged with "assault by mob" will be tried in corporation court tomorrow. Retrial for Scism was set for Monday.

FIRE DEPARTMENT TO CONTINUE WORK

Cabin John Park Group Will Ignore Friction, Says New President.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post

Regardless of controversies in the department, the Cabin John Park Volunteer Fire Department will continue to serve its public, it was announced last night by David Tuohey, recently elected president at a special meeting which followed the voting out of office of the department's officers. Plans for the construction of a new fire house are going forward rapidly, he said, and the department will remain an individual firefighting unit.

A. A. Potter, who was elected president at the regular election and later voted out of office, will be ignored by the department, Mr. Tuohey said. Should Mr. Potter or any of his faction file suit in equity for accounting of the department's funds while he was treasurer, Dr. Tuohey declared, he will welcome the inquiry.

"The department is in a position to take care of any obligations which may arise and all dues and obligations, such as garage rent and State Firemen's Association dues, have been paid for several months in advance. I have receipts showing that such dues have been paid," Mr. Tuohey declared.

He said that a bill creating a Cabin John Park fire taxing area, extending along Conduit road, is expected to receive favorable action in the State Legislature this week. The bill has been introduced, but held quiescent until the tangle affairs of the department could be straightened out. State Senator Robert G. Hilton and all five members of the county delegation to the House of Delegates have assured him that they will push the bill immediately, Mr. Tuohey said.

The Cabin John Park and Glen Echo Heights section has a combined assessable basis of $620,000 and a very small tax would be sufficient to maintain the department, Mr. Tuohey said.

Montgomery County's schools maintained an exceptionally high percentage of average attendance for the month of February, although that month is notoriously one of the worst months in the year from an attendance standpoint. The elementary schools maintained an average attendance of 87.7 per cent and the high schools of 91.3 per cent.

Schools which were awarded the attendance banner for the highest average in their particular classes were Takoma-Silver Spring Senior High School, 93.9 per cent; Germantown Ninth Grade Junior High School, 96.3 per cent; Takoma-Silver Spring Seventh and Eighth Grades Junior High School, 94.8 per cent; Laytonsville Graded School, 94.7 per cent; Brookeville two-teacher school, 95.3 per cent, and Brighton one-teacher school, 96.3 per cent.

Miss Elizabeth Leizear and Miss Bennie Rice, social workers of the Montgomery County Social Service League at Rockville, will attend a staff meeting of the Maryland Children's Aid Society at the main office of the society in Baltimore this afternoon. They were invited to the meeting by Miss Katherine Kirwan, executive secretary of the society, who is acting director of the social service league at present.

There were 78 admissions to the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring in February, 49 of which were pay cases, according to the report of Miss Elizabeth Jones, superintendent of the hospital. There were 21 operations, four cases treated, 176 laboratory examinations made and 64 X-ray pictures taken.
